THE STATE LEGISLATURE.

How Corruption was Sustained by the Tammany Greeleyites.

Important Reform Measures at the Mercy of the Governor.

Adjournment of Both Houses Without Day.

The Senate in Extra Session to Try the Judges.

Refusal to Confirm Miller's and Judge Leonard's Successors.

From Our Own Correspondent.

ALBANY, Tuesday, May 14, 1872.

A majority of both Houses of the Legislature came together, this morning, with an evident determination to reach a final adjournment today at all hazards. A large number of members are delegates to one or the other of the State Conventions to be held at Rochester and Elmira tomorrow, and many who are not delegates desire to attend. If a recess were taken, it was doubtful whether a quorum could be induced to come back, and although there are important public bills pending enough to occupy the Legislature another week, yet it has been found impossible to keep members here any longer to consider them, and they must all die a natural death, or take their chances in the general scramble of the last hours of the session. The Quarantine bill and the Harbor-Master's bill are among the most important measures affecting the City of New-York that will be sacrificed. The investigations of the Commerce and Navigation Committee have furnished abundant proof of the necessity of reform in those departments, but a powerful combination has been brought to bear by the present incumbents to prevent any change that would remove them from office. Mr. ALVORD appears to have been retained as the spokesman of the crowd, and his influence with the Greeley Republicans and corruptionists in the Assembly, aided by the solid vote of the Democrats, has been sufficient to prevent the passage of any measure calculated to disturb the present order of things. The merchants of New-York, who have so long suffered from the exactions and extortions of these port officials, may thank Mr. ALVORD for the failure to get relief from the present Legislature.

THE IMPEACHMENT MANAGEMENT.

The result of the vote to lay aside all other business last night to introduce a resolution to add Mr. TILDEN to the list of impeachers shows that the opponents of the ticket elected could have succeeded had they acted in concert. On the contrary, they scattered their votes upon JUDD, MORTON, ALBERGER, ROSE and other persons who were not candidates, and the Tammany-Greeley coalition walked over the course. Furthermore, the Bar Association committed the unpardonable blunder of not bringing their ticket into the field until 7 o'clock, only half an hour before the vote was to be taken. This tended to distract the efforts of the Anti-Tammanyites.

JUDGE M'CUNN'S CASE.

The Assembly Judiciary Committee held a meeting this morning to try and agree upon some mode of procedure with regard to Judge McCUNN's case, but no decision could be arrived at, and it was not until the morning session was nearly through, and it began to be doubtful whether the whole case would not fall for want of any action at all, that the Committee could be brought to unite in a report. All the members finally signed a report to send the testimony to the Governor, asking him to recommend to the Senate the removal of the Judge. The report was unanimously adopted by the Assembly, and the report and testimony were immediately transmitted to the Governor, who, it is understood, will send it to the Senate with his recommendation this afternoon.

CENTRAL UNDERGROUND.

Senator PALMER moved to take from the table the adverse report of the Railroad Committee on the bill amending the Central Underground charter. Mr. MADDEN, who was so anxious yesterday, in a thin Senate, to take up the bill and kill it, appeared to have changed his mind entirely during the night. He saw the Senate full, and those friendly to the bill all in their places; so he jumped to his feet and protested against taking up the bill at this late period of the session. The Senate then voted to take up the bill —14 to 10.

This was the signal for a rather violent scene. Mr. MADDEN launched out into another of those violent tirades with which he is in the habit of denouncing every scheme which is not in the interest of Mr. VANDERBILT. He was indiscreet enough, in his excitement, to make broad charges of corrupt means which, as he said, had been employed to promote the passage of the bill, and said further that a certain State officer had been engaged in lobbying it by corrupt means. He was at once interrupted, and the name of the State officer demanded. This brought the irate Senator up all standing. He hesitated and stammered, and finally declined to say anything more on the subject, except that it was an officer who "ought to have been in better business." When it is recollected that Mr. MADDEN was the admirer and eulogist of the late JIM FISK and his system of managing railroads and Legislatures, the value of his opinion on a question of this kind may be properly estimated. He was fitly rebuked by Senators JOHNSON and LEWIS for his loose notions on the subject of imputing corruption to those who happened to disagree from him, and subsided into sullen silence.

A motion to go into Committee of the Whole on the bill failed to receive a two-thirds vote, which probably ends the bill for the session. It is said that the new Central Underground Company will go on and construct their road, under the existing charter, although they were desirous of getting it amended so as to allow them to go under Broadway below City Hall Park.

THE RIFLE RANGE.

The bill establishing a rifle range for the First and Second Division, N. Y. N. G. was among the bills that passed the Senate this morning, and has gone to the Governor for his signature.

REFUSE TO CONFIRM.

The Senate in Executive Session today refused to confirm the Governor's nomination of SMITH WEED for Superintendent of Insurance and CHARLES H. WENFIELD for Commissioner of Appeals. It is said that the name of WEED, for Insurance Superintendent, was sent in with the purpose of having it rejected, and that the Governor will make no further nomination, but allow Mr. GEORGE CHURCH, MILLER's deputy, to hold the office till next session.

PRESENTATION TO SPEAKER SMITH.

Hon. HENRY SMITH, Speaker of the Assembly, was the recipient today of an elegant silver service, the gift of his numerous friends in the Legislature. The presentation was made at Congress Hall, during the recess, in a neat speech by Mr. HUSTED, which was happily responded to by the Speaker.

CENTRAL PARK APPROPRIATION.

The bill appropriating $750,000 to complete works now in progress in Central Park, which was killed on Saturday, was reconsidered in the Assembly today and passed.

THE BROOKLYN HEALTH BILL.

This bill has been amended to suit the objections of the Governor, by making the Health Department a city instead of a county department. As amended it passed the Assembly today, and having previously passed the Senate, it now goes to the Governor. The Brooklyn Charities and Corrections bill, which the Governor vetoed, has also been amended to suit him and repassed.

Adjournment Sine Die—The Democrats Placed Under Fresh Obligations to Mr. Greeley—Immigration Commission—The Sullied Ermine.

Special Dispatch to the New-York Times.

ALBANY, May 14.—The Legislature adjourned sine die at 6 o'clock this evening. The third reading of bills continued in both Houses up to within ten minutes of the adjournment, and several were lying on the Clerk's desk awaiting a final passage when the hour arrived at which the joint resolution required all further business to cease. Among the bills thus choked off for lack of a few minutes of the precious time that has been so often wasted during the session was the Code Amendment bill, an abstract of which was given in Saturday's TIMES. As the thing now stands, no amendments whatever have been made to the Code by this Legislature, which is certainly an improvement over last year, when several infamous amendments were smuggled into a bill after the Legislature adjourned.

Among the bills that were lucky enough to get through in the hurry and bustle of the last two hours of the Legislature was the important bill reorganizing the Board of Commissioners of Emigration. Several changes have been made in the names of the new Commissioners since the bill was first introduced, but the bill, as passed, names the following gentlemen: Hugh Gardner, Frederick Gormann, Wisner H. Townsend, Daniel Manger, Alexander H. Stuart, Andrew W. Leggett and Gen. Alexander W. Harvey. The following is the vote on the final passage of the bill in the Assembly, Democrats in italics:

YEAS—Abbott, Alberger, I. H. Babcock, Badeau, Beckwith, Bennett, J. D. Brown, Burritt, Campbell, Crandall, Davidson, Flammer, Fort, Fowler, Geib, Goring, Green, Griffin, Haight, A. L. Hayes, J. Hayes, Healy, Herrick, Holdridge, Hollister, Houghton, Hungerford, Hyatt, Judd, Kennedy, Kingsland, Knapp, Knettles, Lewis, Lincoln, Lippitt, G. P. Lord, Lott, Mackay, Marcy, Moore, Morton, Moseley, Moulton, Murdock, Miles, Osgood, Paige, Pell, Pierce, Preston, Rice, Rose, Shepardson, Smiley, Sniper, the Speaker, Springsted, Squires, Strahan, Twombly, A. L. Van Dusen, W. J. Van Dusen, Wells, White, Whitaker, Woodward, Woolsey, Wyman, Yeomans—70.

Complimentary resolutions to Speaker SMITH were passed in the Assembly, and the Speaker made a very happy farewell speech before announcing the final adjournment.

The Governor sent a message to the Senate before that body adjourned, calling a special session, to consider the case of Judge PRINDLE, of Chenango County, against whom charges of malfeasance were preferred several weeks ago. The Senate accordingly met this evening, when Judge PRINDLE and his counsel, Mr. MYGATT, appeared and put in a demurrer to the charges, based on the fact that Judge PRINDLE was re-elected to his present Judgeship since the alleged malfeasance occurred. Counsel for the prosecution admitted the fact, and after some discussion the Senate voted to adjourn to Wednesday of next week, when argument will be heard on the demurrer. The Senate meets on the same day in conjunction with the Court of Appeals to organize as a High Court of Impeachment for trial of Judge BARNARD, and Judge PRINDLE's case is to be taken up immediately after the adjournment of the Court.

The Governor this afternoon transmitted to the Senate the evidence in Judge McCUNN's case, together with the action of the Assembly, and recommended the removal of the Judge, provided the Senate shall find that the charges are sustained. Judge McCUNN's case, like that of Judge PRINDLE, will be tried by the Senate alone, but whether before or after the impeachment trial of Judge BARNARD is not yet determined. S.

THE TREATY OF WASHINGTON.

Possible Combination of Anti-Administration Republicans with Democrats to Defeat Settlement.

Special Dispatch to the New-York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 14.—There is danger that the intense partisan opposition in the Senate to the Administration will be arrayed against the proposed settlement of the indirect claims now in question. If all the Democrats and all the so-called disaffected Republican Senators should unite, they could defeat favorable action in a full Senate by a majority of one. It seems scarcely credible that Senators having any regard for their oaths of office would so act, yet certain gentlemen in the Senate have already given evidence of a determination to treat this great question from just such a standpoint. The business interests of the country, which are certainly non-partisan, ought to make their non-partisan influence felt on a question like this. The draft of the new treaty is not before the Senate for ratification, but only for advice, since it has not been formally negotiated. In asking the advice of the Senate previous to making a formal treaty, the President has followed one of the precedents established by the custom of the first Presidents of the Republic. If the Senate after considering the draft of the new treaty which is presented to them, advises that it should be negotiated in the terms proposed, the treaty will be so drawn and formally negotiated. Then it will be again submitted to the Senate for ratification. The documents which were sent to the Senate, with the proposed article, were confidentially printed last night and were furnished to the Senators today. The Foreign Relations Committee will meet to-morrow. If it shall decide to recommend to the Senate that its advice on the treaty be given, it will be very effective toward securing the necessary two-thirds vote.

Dispatch to the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, May 14.—There seems to be a misapprehension in some quarters respecting the precise character of the question before the Senate with reference to the Treaty of Washington. Although inquiry has not resulted in obtaining full particulars on the subject, it can be stated that the submission of the new article to the Senate is with a view of obtaining the opinion of that body upon it to guide the President in his formal action in the negotiation. In other words, it is not now before the Senate for ratification. This new article was originally submitted to the United States by Great Britain in a form somewhat different from that in which it is now presented. She wanted the claims for consequential damages altogether withdrawn, not being willing to admit the principle. On the other hand, while our Government did not press any moneyed consideration for such claims, it desired that the question as to their admissibility should be settled by the Geneva Tribunal, and therefore refused to withdraw them, believing they were properly in the case, both parties thus maintaining their respective positions. The treaty was, even last week, in danger of failure, as it is known Great Britain meditated withdrawing from the arbitration, but by means of telegraphic communication the two Governments were able to arrive at a satisfactory conclusion in the difference in this way, namely: Great Britain maintains that the claims for consequential damages were not included in the treaty, and therefore she does not admit the principle of asking such damages sustained by a belligerent, owing to the absence of due diligence in the performance of neutral obligations. The United States maintain that the claims for consequential damage were included in the treaty, but accept the latter declaration as a guide for our future conduct, and therefore will not make any claim before the Geneva Tribunal for consequential claims. Such is understood to be the substance of the proposed new article. Although there has not been any general expression as to the result, the opinion obtains that the Senate will favorably advise the President in the premises.

The Correspondence Laid Before the Committee on Foreign Relations.

WASHINGTON, D. C., May 14.—Copies of the Alabama correspondence and the President's message, printed in confidence, have been distributed among the members of the Committee on Foreign Relations. The Committee, all present except Senator PATTERSON, held a meeting this morning to consider the proposed additional article to the treaty, but arrived at no conclusion. They will resume its consideration today or to-morrow.

Comments of the London Journals.

LONDON, May 14.—The London journals of this morning devote much space in their editorial columns to remarks upon the explanations regarding the indirect claims and the position of the English Government, made in the House of Lords last night by Earl GRANVILLE, and in the House of Commons by Mr. GLADSTONE. The journals approve the negotiations now proceeding, but doubt concurrence in them by the United States Senate.

Debate in the Canadian Parliament on the Treaty Bill.

OTTAWA, Canada, May 14.—The debate on the Washington Treaty bill was resumed, yesterday, and continued to the adjournment of the House late at night. The principal speakers were Sir FRANCIS HINCKS and Hon. JOHN H. CAMERON, who supported the bill. The debate will be resumed today, and a division will probably be taken.

JEWS IN ROUMANIA.

Official Correspondence of the State Department with the American Consul at Bucharest—Improved Condition of the Israelites Consequent upon the Action of Our Government.

WASHINGTON, May 14.—In response to a Senate resolution of March 28, the President today transmitted to the Senate the official correspondence in regard to the persecution and oppression of the Israelites in Roumania.

Mr. PEIXOTTO, American Consul at Bucharest, in a letter addressed to Secretary FISH, under date of Oct. 6, 1872, says:

"The action of our Government concerning the persecution of the Jews has realized thus far the moral influence it was hoped my appointment and acceptance of the position would exercise. While it has been impossible to restrain prejudices fostered by designing men, mostly for political ends, and in many instances for the purposes of robbery, every attempt at open violence has been promptly quelled, and effective measures taken to prevent outrages."

In a letter dated Feb. 6, 1872, the Consul writes that accounts had reached Bucharest of deplorable scenes of recent occurrence in several towns of Bessarabian Roumania, and especially at Ismail, Vilcoun and Cabul, where the population had rushed upon the Israelites, devastated their homes, and shed their blood. Hundreds had fled across the Danube for refuge in Turkey.

Under date of April 19, 1872, Mr. PEIXOTTO writes again, stating that all the foreign representatives at Bucharest, except the Russian, had signed an address to the Government of Prince CHARLES, saying they had learned with profound regret that after having condemned several Israelites to severe penalties, the prosecution of whom was abandoned by the public Ministry itself, the Court of Assizes of Bugis had acquitted all the individuals who were charged with committing the gravest excesses and crimes against the Jewish population of Vilcoon. The address continues: "We see in this double verdict an indication of the dangers to which Israelites are exposed in Roumania, the imminence of which at the approach of the Easter holidays justified the steps recently taken by us simultaneously near the Government of the Prince. The Governments of the undersigned will judge whether the impunity which has been enjoyed by the assailants of the Jews is not of a nature to encourage a repetition of scenes of violence quite unworthy of a civilized country, which, as such, ought to insure freedom and security to all religious denominations."

Secretary FISH, under date of May 13, 1872, in acknowledging receipt of PEIXOTTO's dispatch of April 19, 1872, accompanied by a copy of the remonstrance above referred to, says: The Department approves your taking part in the remonstrance. Whatever caution and reserve may usually characterize the policy of this Government in such matters may be regarded as inexpedient when every guarantee and consideration of justice appears to have been set at defiance in the course pursued with reference to the unfortunate people referred to. You will not be backward in joining any similar protest or other measure which the foreign representatives here may deem advisable, with a view to avert or mitigate further harshness toward the Israelites resident in or subjects of the Principality.

Rev. ALESSANDRO GAVAZZI delivered an address last evening, at the Association Hall, on "Papal Infallibility." The dogma of infallibility, he said, was ridiculous in its nature, and sacrilegious in its assumption; it was an essential attribute of God, and no man dare assume it. He proceeded to examine the various arguments which have been urged in favor of the doctrine, but failed to see anything in the Bible, which was the foundation of our common Christianity, to sustain this assumption of the Papacy. The lecturer stated that he knew the present Pope, and remembered when he had to quit the army and join the "clerical militia." He was expelled from College for stupidity and general incapacity. Did the Pope, he asked, sustain his title of shepherd of the fold when he deserted Rome? The good shepherd laid down his life for his flock, but PIUS IX. took the lives of his subjects. The reverend lecturer gave a history of the Council of 1870, showed how it was that the Pope secured the votes of the "poor bishops," and carried the infallibility doctrine by a vote of 450 against 150, and enlarged on the absurdity of the idea that the Holy Ghost inspired a council where such dissensions existed. He argued that Ritualism was masked Popery, and warned the American people to beware of it. Italy Christianized herself; but let not America Romanize herself. He denounced the services and ceremonies of the Ritualists and Puseyites, and cautioned the people of this country to watch the plottings of the Jesuits, who, he said, were conspiring to establish Popery among them.

Mass-Meeting of the Sons of Temperance—Address by Congressman Price, of Iowa.

A mass-meeting of the Eastern Division of the Sons of Temperance, which comprises six societies, was held last evening in the Alanson Methodist Episcopal Church, Norfolk-street. Rev. STEPHEN MERRITT, Jr., presided, and introduced Hon. Mr. PRICE, member of Congress from Iowa, who delivered an address showing the evil results of intemperance, and the beauties and benefits of a sober, abstemious life. In India, he said, statistics show that 25,466 people have died in that country from the effects of being bitten or stung by serpents. Fearful as this is to contemplate, it is nothing compared to the ravages of the serpent of drink in this country, where, on an average, 100,000 people sink into drunkards' graves every year. And the moderate drinkers, those who only "take a little wine for the stomach's sake and their often infirmities," furnish the recruits to this army of drunkards, who are daily marching on steadily to death and spiritual destruction. There is no safety except in total abstinence, and he deprecated even the use of sweet cider, as it gave bad example and might develop a taste for strong drink. He concluded by advocating a prohibitory law in every State, which he said was as old as the world, and commenced with the command, "Of the fruit of this tree thou shalt not eat."

Addresses were also made by Rev. Dr. HYNES, of Auburn, N. Y., and Mr. C. E. ABBOTT. Resolutions were adopted encouraging the district societies in their efforts in organizing juvenile temperance bands, and also thanking the pastors of the churches whose doors are thrown open to them to hold meetings in.

Large Seizure of Whisky by Government Detectives.

BOSTON, May 14.—The United States detectives yesterday seized between $4,000 and $5,000 worth of whisky, in the possession of MICHAEL CARNEY & Co. The affidavits claim that the stamps on the barrels are counterfeits.

The Board of Street Commissioners have recommended the extension of Devonshire-street, fifty feet in width, through Wilson's-lane to Dock-square, at an expense of $500,000.

Annual Meeting of the Society of the Army of Tennessee.

MADISON, Wis., May 14.—Extensive preparations are being made by the local Committee of this city for the meeting of the Army of the Tennessee on the 3d and 4th of July next. Gen. LEGGETT, of Ohio, will deliver the annual address. Gens. GRANT, SHERIDAN, MEADE, and many other distinguished officers are expected.

MARINE FRAUDS.

How Foreign Vessels were Illegally Registered Under Our Flag.

Perjury and Forgery by Wholesale by Ship-Owners and Their Agents—Deputy Surveyor Abell's Investigations.

It has recently been discovered that the most daring and successful frauds upon the General Government in the registry of vessels have been practiced for years past. Since about 1865, which is the period at which they commenced, according to proof now in possession of the authorities, there has existed a system of wholesale and glaring perjury and forgery, by which hundreds of vessels have been registered as being American bottoms, when in reality they were built abroad, or if constructed here were disqualified under the law from flying the flag of the United States. That the laws should thus have been so successfully ignored for such a long time, inflicting great damage upon American shipping interests, and helping further to injure our commerce, already so greatly impaired, would seem to be a matter of surprise; but it is probable that detection was rendered difficult by the fact, already stated, that both forgery and false swearing were in almost every case thus far discovered unhesitatingly resorted to. Mr. HENRY E. ABELL, Deputy Surveyor at this port, has for a long time past been investigating the matter, almost unaided and alone, and it is owing to his untiring energy that these frauds have been discovered. But Mr. ABELL does not consider his labors as yet completed, and he is slowly but surely winding his network of positive proof around the guilty parties. He is certain that these frauds have been practiced to a most alarming extent, and thinks that within the past five years more vessels have been fraudulently registered as being of American build than have been constructed in the whole of the United States in the last ten years. But these practices have not been confined to this port alone, nor have Mr. ABELL's investigations, for the principal coast cities of the Union have been the scenes of these operations. The proof of guilt is being brought home to ship-owners and speculators and their agents, Captains and Custom-house brokers, not only in New-York, where much of it was carried on, but in the ports of the North and East.

To understand the motive for these frauds, it will be necessary to glance briefly at the laws enacted by Congress for the protection of our commerce and the privileges given to American vessels over foreign traders, when it will be seen that while no foreign vessel whatever can engage in the coasting trade in this country, American vessels can go all over the world. To illustrate: If a British vessel comes from Liverpool with a cargo to New-Orleans, she will find it difficult to get a return cargo there, and will have to come to New-York, Boston or some other port. The law passed by Congress in 1792, known as the Registry act, prevents her carrying any cargo from one of our ports to another, and she must go in ballast, thereby losing time and money, while the wear and tear of the ship, the pay of the men, &c., go on as usual. Now, as there are no such restrictions on American vessels, a great advantage is gained over foreigners, and if a foreign vessel could be given the privileges of the American flag, thousands of dollars would be added to her value.

The law of 1792 forbids an American citizen running a foreign-built vessel, but by the act of Congress passed Dec. 23, 1852, power is given the Secretary of the Treasury to grant permission to an American citizen, the owner of a foreign vessel wrecked within nine miles of our coasts, to register as an American bottom, if, in repairing the hull of the wreck alone, three-fourths of the value of the wreck is expended. During the war of the rebellion certain American vessel-owners, often men of wealth, with more selfishness than patriotism, had their vessels registered in England and other foreign countries, availing themselves of the protection afforded by a foreign flag against probable losses from capture by rebel cruisers. When the war was over, and everything safe again, these same men wanted to come back and reap the advantages gained by men more loyal and self-sacrificing, actually applying to Congress for the passage of a bill allowing them to reregister under our flag. Instead of complying with their wishes, Congress, very properly, on Feb. 10, 1866, passed a law forever excluding all such vessels from being transferred to American registry, and by a law signed July 18, in the same year, it is also provided that if any false certificate of registry shall be prepared, the vessel shall be condemned, and the proprietors punished for forgery or perjury, or both, as the case may be.

It will be seen that the advantages our ships enjoy was a temptation to unscrupulous men to buy vessels built in England, where labor is so much cheaper and prices lower, (especially since our war, which paralyzed American ship-building interests, and rendered us entirely unable to compete with England,) and, by a direct violation of the laws, procure American registry.

There are two ways in which fraudulent registration was procured. One was, in the case of an American-built vessel transferred during the war, to have her purposely and carefully run aground at some safe place on our coast, so as to necessitate a few hundred dollars' worth of repairs, such as vessels often need after long voyages; call her a wreck, and exaggerate the bills for repairs to an amount equaling three-fourths the value of the "wreck." All this necessitated wholesale perjury in affidavits from the Captain and members of the crew certifying to the "wreck," a Port-Warden's estimate of the value of the same, and bills of items sworn to from carpenters, ship calkers, &c., engaged in the repairs. The papers were then deposited with the Collector of the port, by whom they were forwarded to Washington to the Secretary of the Treasury.

The other formula was nearly the same, in the case of a vessel built in England or anywhere abroad, except that the vessel would be carefully "wrecked," to the great dismay of her British owners, and there would immediately follow a bogus sale at auction, advertised for a few days in some obscure newspaper, the location of the "wreck" being not specified, and the sale, to an American citizen, taking place at daylight in the morning, or at some other unseasonable hour. Then would follow the fraudulent bill for repairs, &c. In one case in which a public sale of this kind was made, at, as the advertisement definitely stated, "the shore of Long Island," the nominal price brought by the "wreck" was $1,120, but the real sum paid was $6,000.

The names of many persons engaged in these conspiracies to defraud the Government, some of them standing high in repute, are known to Mr. ABELL and other Government officers, but it would be inexpedient to publish any of them now, as the ends of justice might be thwarted thereby. Several Custom-house brokers are implicated, one of whom, Mr. STEPHEN D. BABCOCK, is under $5,000 bail. He claims that he was merely an agent, and did not know that the papers he took to the Custom-house were forgeries. He was suspended from the privileges of the Custom-house for one month by the Collector; but the time expired on Saturday last, and he was seen there yesterday. His case will be tried in June before United States Commissioner BETTS, and other cases will be pressed at the same time, when the names of some of the persons implicated will come to light.

Suicide at the Merchants' Hotel—Neglect by a Coroner.

A gentleman, apparently about thirty years of age, took rooms at the Merchants' Hotel, Cortlandt-street, on Saturday night, registering his name as "LORENZO C. SPENCER, Oil City, Penn." On Monday night, the watchman, going his rounds, saw a light burning in Mr. SPENCER's room and knocked at the door. No answer was returned, and thinking there was something wrong, the door was forced open, when it was found that the man had committed suicide by shooting himself through the head with a Derringer pistol, the weapon being still tightly grasped in the right hand. The proprietor of the hotel sent a note to Coroner YOUNG, who, without making any investigation, gave a permit for the removal of the body to an undertaker's store in Greenwich-street. The Police did not hear of the case until 3 o'clock in the morning, after the body had been removed. Coroner YOUNG left this City yesterday morning to attend the Rochester Convention, and no official notification of the suicide was received at the Coroners' office until late yesterday afternoon. Coroner SCHIRMER then assumed charge of the case. It was ascertained that the relatives of the deceased reside at East Clarendon, near Rutland, Vt. No cause for the suicide could be discovered.

WASHINGTON.

The Morrill Amendment—Promotions in the Quartermaster's Department—Civil Rights and Amnesty—Slow Progress on the Tariff.

Special Dispatch to the New-York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 14.—The Morrill amendment to the Deficiency bill causes much delay in the adjustment of the differences between the two Houses of Congress. The House made an entirely new proposition as an amendment to the Senate amendment, and the Conference Committee managed to insert in its place an entirely new amendment, not acceptable to House or Senate. The possibility is that both Houses will reject the amendment, and leave the subject involved to be legislated upon next Winter. There will be a strong effort, however, to have the conference report agreed to.

PROMOTIONS IN THE QUARTERMASTER'S DEPARTMENT.

The old controversy about promotions in the Quartermaster's Department has broken out afresh, and it is understood that the House Military Committee today agreed to report the Senate bill with certain amendments. The object of the promoters of this bill is believed to be to get it before the House and then disagree to the amendments of the Military Committee, for the purpose of preventing the return of the bill to the Senate, where it would now very likely be slaughtered. The opposition to the bill is strong and active.

CIVIL RIGHTS AND AMNESTY.

At 12 o'clock, today, the Senate resumed the consideration of the Amendatory Election Law bill, under agreement that the debate should be limited to five-minute speeches. Several speeches, very general in character, were made, which indicated that many of the friends of the Amnesty bill would vote against attaching it to this Election law. Mr. TRUMBULL was very zealous in advocating amnesty, and charged that all those who would not vote for amnesty, all the time, under all circumstances, were only giving it a sham support. He knew very well that if amnesty should be attached to the Election bill, all the Democrats and all those Republicans who desire the passage of a Civil Rights bill this session as much or more than they desire an Amnesty bill, would vote against both measures if combined, and defeat amnesty with the other. He was evidently using amnesty to defeat the Election law, and adroitly transferred his zeal for the defeat of one to the advocacy of the other. Before the vote was taken, some discussion was had about the proper time to bring forward the Civil Rights amendment, and Mr. SUMNER expressed his desire to move it as an amendment to the bill itself, rather than as an amendment to the Amnesty amendment. Mr. TRUMBULL, though himself opposing his own motion, at once moved the Civil Rights bill as an amendment to the Amnesty amendment, he said for the purpose of seeing who was disposed to vote for this proposition. Several Senators expressed a determination to vote against it, and Mr. SUMNER said he would vote against it, for he would vote against any proposition which he knew was made with evil intent. This merited rebuke was received with expressions of satisfaction all around, which was almost applause. Mr. TRUMBULL carried only six votes on this motion—thirty being against him. The Amnesty bill, as an amendment, was then rejected by 22 to 23. The motion to attach amnesty having thus failed, Mr. SUMNER moved to add the Civil Rights bill. This was discussed for a time, and then withdrawn by the mover in response to appeals from Mr. SHERMAN and other friends of both measures. An incident of the discussion of this amendment was a kind of plaintive lament by Mr. HILL for the abolition of slavery, with the assurance to the country that he could never consider any colored man his peer or equal. Mr. HAMLIN gave notice that he should hereafter always vote to keep the amnesty and civil rights measures distinct from each other and all complications. Some further time was taken in considering and voting upon other amendments to the Election bill, which was not materially changed, and it finally passed by a vote of 36 to 17. As usual TRUMBULL voted with the Democrats, and acted all day as their leader. SCHURZ was paired on the same side with Mr. SUMNER.

AMENDMENTS TO THE KUKLUX ACT.

The next bill to come before the Senate is that reported from the Kuklux Investigating Committee, extending the time in which the provisions contained in the fourth section of the Kuklux bill passed last year shall be effective. It was taken up to-night after the passage of the Election law, but was informally laid aside while the conference report on the Deficiency bill was considered. It will be the unfinished business at 12 o'clock to-morrow. It will create a good deal of opposition, but is likely to pass.

THE TARIFF.

Another day of slow progress on the tariff, for which Mr. BEATTY, of Ohio, is chiefly responsible. Mr. BEATTY is one of quite a numerous class of revenue reformers, who favor sweeping reductions upon every industry save the one which predominates in their respective districts. Mr. BEATTY wants wool left at its present rate, and, because the majority of the House are more consistent revenue reformers than himself, he persisted today in blocking all progress by every Parliamentary device that malicious ingenuity could suggest and passionate temper execute. He has a wool speech which he insists that the House shall hear, although the House declined to hear it today in a dozen different votes. Even the friends of a high wool tariff deserted BEATTY at the end, and he continued his pitiful tactics without the support of a solitary member. None of the shoals of amendments which were offered to the ten per cent. clause were adopted save those which attached printed paper and steel and manufactures of steel to the clause. Mr. DAWES attempted to carry an amendment adding lumber to these ten per cent. reductions, but a great uproar was made by both the friends and enemies of the lumber tariff, and nullifying amendments were so plentifully interposed to drive off a vote on Mr. DAWES' motion, that he withdrew it. It is understood that he will press it again to-morrow. Mr. DAWES' position was sorely tried today, but he bore the onslaught patiently, and is daily proving himself the best friend and safest leader of the reasonable men on both sides.

Base-Ball Notes.

The Mutuals demolished the Junior Burnsides on the Union Ground, yesterday, by a score of 26 to 2, the Juniors scoring only in the eighth inning. Neither HICKS nor BECHTEL played, and the Mutuals went through the game in a listless, indifferent manner, although a few good plays in the field were recorded on their score.

This afternoon the Mutuals meet the Troy nine (late Haymakers) on the Union Ground. The New-Yorkers are confident of victory, their opponents being in a rather demoralized condition without the services of two of their best men, NELSON and GEDNEY, both of whom are, through illness, unable to play. On the other hand the Mutuals will present their best nine, with HICKS as catcher, BECHTEL at left field and BOYD on third base. Play will begin at 3½ P. M.

The first of the annual Harvard-Yale series is set down for Saturday, May 25. The Yale nine of this year is as follows: Maxwell, pitcher; Bentley, catcher; Barnes, first base; Richards, second base; Ch. Deming, third base; Day, short stop, with Nevin Cl. Deming and Thomas in the out-field. On the 22d the Yales play the Forest Citys at New-Haven.

Special Dispatch to the New-York Times.

PORT JERVIS, N. Y., May 14.—The express-train which left New-York, on the Erie Railway, at 9½ A.M. today, had a most narrow escape from complete destruction, accompanied by frightful sacrifice of life, when eighty-four miles from the City, and four miles east of this place. The train was composed of three palace-coaches and four passenger-cars, all crowded with travelers to the West, and delegates to the Republican State Convention at Elmira. On arriving at Turner's, forty-eight miles out, it was found that the palace-car Pacific, one of the oldest on the line, and which was next the baggage-car, had a hot box. It was cooled as well as possible, and the train proceeded at its usual rate of speed for thirty-six miles, when it was suddenly halted, and the passengers discovered that they had just escaped a fearful accident. The axle of the Pacific had burned complely off, letting the front wheel on the left-hand side down upon the ties, and in this condition the train had been running at a high rate of speed for a mile along the edge of a precipice 100 feet high. Nothing saved the car from pitching off the track and down this embankment, where the others would certainly have followed, but the fact that it was on six-wheel trucks, and even that circumstance would have been overborne, had not all the cars of the train been chained, and the broken one thus been held upon the road. As matters turned out, nothing more serious occurred than a delay of three hours, occupied by sending to Port Jarvis for a wrecking-train and replacing the burned axles with new ones; for after the wheels had been removed it was found that both axles had been burned entirely through. Great indignation was expressed among the passengers that the boxes should have been so carelessly packed as to render such an accident possible in a run of only eighty miles, but credit is given the engineer, Mr. QUADOR, for so soon noticing the condition of his train and stopping it.

CUBA.

The Revolution in Spain—Its Influence Upon Island Affairs—Custom-House Abuses—An Exodus—Miscellaneous Intelligence—War News.

From Our Own Correspondent.

HAVANA, Saturday, May 4, 1872.

The revolution in Spain is the absorbing topic of conversation, and the worst enemies of King AMADEUS pray that he may be successful, and be enabled to quell it at an early day. A change of dynasty in Spain would bring about a change in the Island of Cuba. Here the present Spanish Government would be replaced by a short military dictatorship, supported by the volunteer element, to be followed by an undecided and dangerous interregnum under the leadership of conservative Cubans and liberal Spaniards, and to wind up with the inevitable rule of the colored race, aided by the extreme Republicans. Then, either chaos or military occupation by the United States might be expected. If the revolution in Spain should continue any reasonable length of time, it would strengthen the Cuban cause materially, as no troops will be sent from Spain until peace is re-established, but whenever that event occurs, the island will be flooded by a new set of Goverment employes, as a recompense for their services during the revolution. A new Collector of Customs is awaited in the place of Mr. CARRETERO, and the Minister appointing him will be careful not to use the same phrase as that used by the one appointing CARRETERO: "Go to Cuba, make a couple of hundred thousand dollars, and come back in a year or two." CARRETERO obeyed literally, and even overstepped his instructions.

CUSTOM-HOUSE ABUSES.

Speaking of the Custom-house, the remarkable fact is presented that many articles can be purchased in Havana about twenty-five per cent. cheaper than they can be imported into other island towns. But one solution is possible, namely, that certain Havana merchants are in league with the Custom-house officials, and pay only half rates instead of full duties. Fifty large cases containing opium have lately been imported as lard; seven large cases of silk were entered as ordinary linen goods, and as such certified by the Inspector; five hundred barrels of flour, from the United States, paid eight hundred dollars duty instead of two thousand dollars. These cases have come under my personal observation, and the merchants in the interior complain loudly of what they call an injustice and a fraud, while it is simply a continuance of a time-honored custom. A friend of your correspondent, receiving a cargo of rice, was compelled to make out false papers, so that the officials could "make" something, although he at first peremptorily refused, but at last had to submit, as he was threatened with measures which would have ruined him. In fact, a certain portion of Havana Custom-house officials ought to receive a medal of honor as a recompense for the superior manner in which they know how to manage matters. The Press, as usual, is silent, but even in the absence of the Censorship, the newspapers would not dare to say anything. The army officers act differently, only thirty-six quarter-masters out of 107 have run away with the funds of their regiments or battalions—a small proportion, indeed. Two or three more have gambled away the funds intrusted to them, and it is supposed that they will leave the country at an early day. Of the civil officers, several will return to Spain, two because they have made money enough, and three because they are disgusted at the immense amount of smuggling and roguery carried on under their noses, and which they are powerless to prevent. Among the latter is Señor CANOVAS DEL CASTILLO, the Treasurer of the island.

AN EXODUS.

The number of people leaving the island, principally Spaniards, is enormous. Some have become tired of the continued unsettled condition of matters, others have amassed a sufficient sum to maintain them in Spain, and the remainder go to spend the Summer months on the Peninsula, intending to return next Fall. Every regular and extra steamer is crowded, but not a soul is seen to frequent the recruiting stations of the Government and voluntarily enlist to defend their cause. That kind of business is good enough for the regulars and for the loyal Cubans; it is a business by which no money can be made, and which is, therefore, not liked. In connection with this, it is proper to state that the Spanish journals always call Americans and Englishmen mercadores—a nation of traffickers; and they impress their countrymen with the belief that only the almighty dollar plays a rôle in those countries, representing the inhabitants as very grasping. This is partly true, but Americans and English could still take lessons from the Spaniards. If money is a power anywhere, it is in Cuba; and if any nation can be called avaricious and grasping, the Gallegos and Catalans in Cuba may serve as admirable examples. But few Cubans leave the island, although many are anxious to do so; they don't care to go to Spain, and if they go to the United States they are liable to be called laborantes, and have their property embargoed, or at least become objects of suspicion on their return.

MISCELLANEOUS GOSSIP.

The political Governor sent word on Wednesday evening to the España newspaper that an assault would be committed on the establishment that night by parties unknown to him. Morning papers here are printed at about the hour at which chickens retire for the night, and only a few folders and pressmen were at the time in the Prensa establishment. They closed the doors and awaited the result in fear and trembling, but everything remained quiet. Threats are made against the editor of the paper, and there is a strong party which wants to have him sent away from this peaceful island. ....The steamer Margaret had among its passengers Mrs. CHARITO LONDINO, aged seventy; ALTAGRACIA INIGUEZ, sixty-five; ROSA INIGUEZ, sixty-nine, and MATILDA INIGUEZ, sixty-three years of age, who were captured near Holguin, taken on foot to Gibarra, and thence, with some younger members of the family, brought to Havana, and sent to Key West, the Government paying their passage. The four old ladies are aunts of the Cuban General, CALISTO GARCIA.... The proprietor of Chiarini's Circus, who had begun the erection of a tent, was ordered to discontinue the work, it being alleged that the proprietor had given a performance in Mexico for the benefit of the Cubans....DON JUAN COLAS, the man who died in prison in Santiago de Cuba, some months ago, has been absolved by the Court-martial as innocent of the charges brought against him, and the estates of the dead man have been restored to his family.... About a dozen negroes, slaves, who have acted as guides and spies for the troops, have been declared free by order of Gen. VALMASEDA; those belonging to loyal owners will be paid for out of the island treasury....The society of planters organized for the purpose of inveigling Chinamen into their country, there to be sold as slaves, has agreed to prolong its profitable operations by trafficking in human flesh for another year, with a capital of a million of dollars. The fact is advertised in the journals and signed by JULIAN ZULUETA, the President, and JOSE PLA, the Director. The Chinese slave trade is altogether carried on now in Spanish and French vessels, and the shareholders or speculators are Cubans, Spaniards, and a few Frenchmen. It is understood that only one American, a Philadelphia merchant, has any interest in this traffic, and only two Consuls countenance it, both being friends of President ZULUETA.

WAR NEWS.

Gen. VALMASEDA has left Manzanillo for Canto del Embarcadero, and is again infusing new life into the commanders of his columns, and at the same time trying to get some insurgent commanders of influence out of the way....The Matanzas guerillas had killed a Venezuelan Captain named ROFFATI, and JOSE ROJAS, an Adjutant of LUIS FIGUEREDO....The number of insurgents on the east side of the Canto had increased considerably; it is suspected that the united Cuban forces in that part of the country will recross the Canto and move near Figuani. The Spanish journals give the number of insurgents in the jurisdiction of Holguin at six hundred, while Cuban advices raise the number to 1,100 effective men. All are reported moving eastward toward the Rus Mountains, near Cuba.... The different bands commanded by the negro JESUS DIAZ had several engagements with the troops, near Moron. JESUS commands about 200 men, and the negro CAOBAS about 150. The smaller bands of negroes are estimated at about 250 more, irrespective of the few white Cuban bands....The wife of the Cuban commander, JOSE GOMEZ, was captured by the troops, and in an ambush the negroes killed five soldiers.... The Cubans have been quiet for some days in the jurisdiction of Gibara, but it is supposed that they will begin again in a few days, especially as the San Quintin batallion and other Spanish forces have been withdrawn to operate in the jurisdiction of Santiago de Cuba. The vicinity of Baracoa is tranquil and neither troops or insurgents in numbers can exist there any length of time....Brig.-Gen. JUAN CHINCHILLA has been ordered to command the district composed of the jurisdictions of Moron and Santo Spiritus. The reports of atrocities committed by Brigadier AMPUDIA have not been frequent of late, AMPUDIA returning to Spain, if report is true....Operations in the Central Department and the Villas are too insignificant to merit chronicling, and the rainy season being close at hand, will soon end. ....The fortnightly report of the Staff Department gives 246 Cubans killed, 67 taken prisoners, and 835 surrendered; acknowledging 18 Spaniards killed, 99 wounded, and 22 bruised.

NO IMPORTATION OF ARMS.

An order from Spain prohibits the importation of arms and amunition by private parties, during the continuance of the war, to Cuba. It seems that large quantities of arms have been legally shipped from Europe, duty paid (and sometimes smuggled) by loyal Spanish merchants, and the articles then sold or allowed to be captured by the Cubans, in return for the latters money.

NOTES FROM THE PEOPLE.

Common Sense.

To the Editor of the New-York Times:

I have bought and read the Tribune for several years, but the Cincinnati nomination is "too much of a good thing." Hereafter count me in as a buyer and reader of the TIMES, and the same of another Tribune patron in my boarding-house. I admire HORACE GREELEY as an able editor and politician, but when it comes to elevating him to the office of President of the United States, that is quite another thing. Of all our public men, he is the last man to think of intrusting with the affairs of Government. GREELEY the editor, in point of ability, is the pride of all Americans; but GREELEY the President would be the shame of the whole country and the ridicule of the world, if nothing serious should result from his election, which may be regarded as exceedingly doubtful, to say the least. A bull in a china-shop, or an elephant in a quadrille, could not be more out of place. Mr. GREELEY may be able to engineer shrewdly and advise safely in political matters, but when theory became practice he would prove a gigantic failure. Such, at least, are the humble sentiments of

A PRACTICAL MAN.

NEW-YORK, Monday, May 13, 1872.

Backwardness of Staten Island.

In your article upon Staten Island you have exactly "hit the nail on the head." We want more and swifter communication with the City, and we also need an easier means of getting about the Island. The fear of fever and ague deters many from coming to live among us, but if a person does make up his mind (or rather his wife's mind,) to try Staten Island, it is generally found that he and she finding that they do live through the first Summer become very much attached to our "Isle of Wight" and regret to leave. Of course we have fever and ague, it would be folly to deny it, but we don't have it any worse than hundreds of other places near New-York or even New-York itself, and we have really no other malady. I have lived there three years and had it once (only two days.) I don't find myself any the worse for it. Our real trouble has been bad local government; this evil has been in a great measure remedied, and we hope now to further improve matters. Our roads at present are bad, but they have not been worked upon the past year, to enable us to get out of debt. We trust during the coming year to make such improvements as will conduce to the comfort of inhabitants and the pleasure of visitors.

EDGEWATER.

Staten Island.

I admit the justice of your remarks as to the "backwardness of Staten Island." But I am not sure that you make the statement in the sense in which I am willing to admit it. Its "backwardness" I consider merely comparative with the progress of other more active districts, and I maintain that the causes for the state of things which exists are remarkably exceptional, and that the "backwardness" of Staten Islanders is not after all so remarkable as the backwardness of New-Yorkers on this very subject, which concerns them as much, if not more, than the Staten Islanders.

So far as mere individual movements and improvements are concerned, Staten Island is not backward. The population, as the census returns show, is increasing faster than on this island, and any one who takes the trouble to investigate will find that the efforts of the inhabitants to accommodate themselves individually—the opening of new roads as fast as individuals can open them—the construction of new buildings, are all rapidly going on, much more having been undoubtedly done during the last three to five years than in any preceding ten. In drainage, too, much has been done and is doing.

But as to everything which the public are required to attend to—everything which is dependent on combined action and combined capital and general public spirit, there is great backwardness as compared with many other districts having only inferior natural advantages.

This is not strange when it is considered that the island is still for a great part occupied by the descendants of the old settlers, who selected the place for its beauty and quietude, and found living there so easy and pleasant as to continue in the same taste and habits as their forefathers. Among such a people with such habitudes improvement encounters difficulties and objections merely because it is change and novelty. They are satisfied. They think the island belongs to them, and if they are contented they are not very sensitive to clamors for improvement. They are merely carrying to extreme the excuse of disinterested citizens for so long submitting to the oppression and depredations of TWEED. They are minding, according to their own notions, "their own business." Having occasionally been made victims by interested speculators under the guise of corporations they are prejudiced against everything which looks like speculation.

But are the Staten Islanders the only parties interested in this matter, or who should take an active part in developing the beauties and capacities of the Island? What the island wants mostly is ample, easy and quick means of getting to and from it. All other improvements, as better roads, and more direct ones, and more useful and tasteful development of all natural beauties and advantages, would promptly follow the establishment of easy communications to and from it in every direction. It is surrounded by the waters of New-York Harbor, and beyond that by a metropolitan district, every eligible spot of which, to whatever point you turn, is converted into a flourishing village as fast as the lines of rapid communication and the spirit of enterprise approach it. Staten Island has more eligible spots and greater beauties and advantages of every kind than any territory of the same size in the whole great Metropolitan district. But it is not conveniently accessible. It can only be made so by considerable application of influence and capital to establish the proper communications. But is not this a matter in which New-Yorkers are interested? Do they not want the accommodations and the field for tasteful development which Staten Island presents? Has not New-York capital and enterprise opened the means of communication in every other direction? Why, then, should they neglect Staten Island, which offers a more profitable field for the use of capital and art than any district of its size so near New-York? There have always been—there are now—there will not be forever—opportunities for purchasing tracts, which the opening of good and prompt communications will quintuple in value. To say nothing of the great public accommodation and benefit which would flow from the taking up of such tracts and the judicious improvement of them, is it not reasonable to believe that thereby pecuniary profit would be realized much beyond the average of investments? If so, New-Yorkers should not consider that they have nothing to do with this matter but to note and expose the shortcomings of the Staten Islanders. The inattention, and the negligence of duty and interest, are not confined to them. Others who have greater means and greater interests must share the responsibility.

THE METHODIST CONFERENCE.

Questions on Discipline—A Petition Condemning Masonry—Canadian Delegates—Discussion on Boundaries.

The Methodist General Conference entered upon the twelfth day's proceedings yesterday morning. Bishop SIMPSON occupied the chair during the devotional exercises, which were led by Rev. Dr. MERRILL, of Cincinnati. After the devotional exercises, a resolution was offered by Dr. HIBBARD that the general discipline be so altered that cases of appeal may be tried before a chairman appointed by a Bishop, as well as by the Bishop himself. Dr. MERRILL spoke strongly against the passage of the resolution.

Dr. CUYGLER moved that Thursday, at 11 o'clock, should be set apart for the election of additional Bishops. He moved this as a substitute for the original motion. The motion was lost by a vote of 197 to 97. The original motion for a change of discipline was then voted on and lost, the Conference being strongly against it. The plea for offering the motion was that the Bishops were overworked and often found it impracticable to attend promptly to cases over which they had exclusive jurisdiction.

The Genesee Conference presented a petition setting forth that ministers and other members of the Church are members of Masonic lodges. This the petitioners condemned, and begged the Conference to take appropriate action in the matter. The petition was signed by Adolphus Crane, Wm. D. Miller, Walter Shaw, Thomas Dixon, John M. Stall and George Steel.

The reading of the petition created a lively sensation among the members of the Conference. A motion was made that the petition should not take the usual course of being referred to the appropriate Committee, but should be laid on the table. Several delegates protested against this motion, and others spoke in its favor. The petition finally took the usual course, and was referred to the Committee on the State of the Church. Under the call for resolutions one was adopted that the Agents of the Book Concern furnish the Committee the cost of publication of the monthly papers and Quarterly Review, with the number of subscribers to each, in order to properly estimate the cost of the proposed new monthly magazine. Numerous substitutes and amendments were offered from all quarters. It was finally moved to lay all the amendments and substitutes on the table, which was carried. A substitute was then proposed that the Book Committee have power to get whatever information they wish in regard to any proposed publications, and those which have been in existence, from the Agents of the Book Concern. This motion was carried. The order of the day was then taken up, which was the reception of the fraternal delegates from the Methodist Episcopal Church of Canada. Bishop RICHARDSON, who has recently arrived, was introduced to the General Conference. Dr. HARRIS then read the credentials of the fraternal delegates. Rev. Dr. JOSEPH WILD was then introduced as a delegate of the General Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church of Canada to the General Conference of the United States. He spoke of the prospects of the Church in Canada, and said that Methodism never ought to stir up trouble in the national affairs. The membership of the Methodist Episcopal Church in Canada is about 21,000, the number of its ministers 225. He said that he hoped that the Church would encourage the spread of its principles in the Red River country by sending missionaries there. He believed, he continued, that no better field is offered for the enterprise of Methodism than in that quarter. He said that the Methodist Episcopal Church of Canada would prefer union with the Church of the United States rather than owe allegiance to any other body across the water.

Dr. BENSON was then introduced to the Conference. He said that the future of the Methodist Church is not to be foreseen, but he would pledge that the march of his Church would be in the great ranks of the Christian army, and that the union of heart, soul and the Methodist Episcopal Church would be the general sentiment.

The Committee on Boundaries reported that they did not see their way clear to make any change in boundaries recommended by the Bishops, nor do they see any way to make a change without action of the entire Conference. The report was ordered to be printed. A second report was then offered by the same Committee, fixing several boundaries in Arkansas and Indiana. A motion was made to lay the report on the table. This was supplemented by a motion to recommit the report to the Committee for further consideration.

Rev. Mr. HESTER then said that the question of boundaries is a very important one, and he hoped the Conference would not pass upon it until it had been thoroughly reconsidered.

Rev. Mr. WOODRUFF then said that it was now the 14th day of the month, and there had been very little real business done. He hoped the report of the Committee would be passed upon as soon as possible.

Rev. Mr. SLICER said that he knew from experience that such a question should not be passed upon hastily. He said that the question was one which affected a great many persons, and the General Conference was not fitted to pass upon it rashly. He said that he was in favor of a recommittal of the report of the Committee on Boundaries.

Dr. HARRIS said that in his history of Conferences, and he had seen a good deal of them, he never knew of a committee on boundaries which reported piecemeal before. He said that he was in favor of a recommittal of the resolution. After considerable discussion the motion to recommit was laid on the table by vote of the Conference, and the report was ordered to be printed.

The report of the Committee on Missions was read and took its usual course. The Convention then adjourned.

THE NEWLY HOUSED.

Lessons of Moving Day as Observed in This City During the Past Week.

Few of those who have noted the general exchange of residences which occurs yearly in the Cities of New-York, Brooklyn, Jersey City and Hoboken, can have failed to observe that the old custom of each family occupying a whole house is now forgotten. This is not because of necessity, for incomes now bear a higher relation to rents than they did before the war, and the mass of mechanics and laborers are fully as able to live in comfortable apartments now as they were ten years ago. Rents, though somewhat decreased within the past two years, are still higher than they were some years ago, but so, too, are the wages of mechanics and laborers, and therefore the reason does not lie in inability to pay for proper accommodations, but really a disinclination to do so.

The reason for the change is not to be found entirely, even if at all, in the avarice of landlords, for no intelligent house-owner believes that there is more profit in letting a house to four or more families for $1,200 than there would be in letting it to one or two for $1,000, for those who live in uncomfortably small apartments, not only in time lose to some degree their self-respects as well as their mental and physical energies, but also, and naturally, their regard for personal contracts. The result is a much larger percentage of loss through non-paying tenants, to say nothing of the loss sustained through the consequent changing of abodes, and also the increased injury to the property, which always follows the adoption of the "tenement system." The reason lies clearly in the willingness to be badly housed at small expense, and to derive consolation in the change from heartily cursing the landlords for "the amount they grasp from a poor man's pay."

But the unpleasant change now noted has not come on gradually, nor without a seeming occasion for it—such changes seldom do, for where there is knowledge of wrong and inclination to commit the wrong, there is always felt to be need for an excuse for it. That excuse was found in a temporary necessity. The high prices for nearly all the necessaries of life and comfort which were occasioned by the war, made increased care in regard to expenditures a positive necessity, even when wages were largely increased. This led thousands to seek fewer rooms and lower rents. And having sought and found them, and having also become accustomed to the change, they now decline abodes of former dimensions, even though the rates of wages hold the advance, and staple provisions have been very much cheaper during the past two years than for several years before.

The influence of this change is simply bad on both landlord and tenant. One result of it has been especially notable during the past two years, and that is that while the population of the City has increased in more than the ratio of the increase in the number of new buildings, houses and parts of houses to let are now plentiful during all the year, where before even parts of houses were seldom to be found vacant a few days after moving day. The effect of this changed condition is loss and anxiety to the landlord, for there are taxes and assessments to pay whether the house be rented or not; and to the tenants, there is increase of discomfort and of diseases.

The response of those who see no cause for complaint in this growing change, is that there is nothing new in it; that as the nation grows older the rich and the poor become more distinctly known, form different habits of life and thought, and take their widely separate places naturally as time and change increase. Such a response holds mainly true in countries where laws are made only for the benefit and protection of the more affluent class; but here, where the recognized duty of the statesman is an anxious care for the prosperity of the multitude; where the multitude select their own lawmakers; where prices for physical labor, and the lessening of the hours required for work, are maintained, not only by labor associations, but also by the Legislatures of the several States, and by Congress, such a change is caused by the multitude. This class fail to see that by seeming to save from $2 to $5 per month in the outlay for rent they are debasing their mental and physical energies, losing their self-respect and taste for improving entertainments, and placing themselves gradually but surely, and of their own free will, upon a level with those abroad who are born to degradation, and who feel that to be their predestined place.

The changed and still changing conditions which have been noted are now patent to any observing man, and they are of the gravest consequence to the future of our cities, if not to the nation at large. The only cure for them is to place them fully and distinctly before those who are passing unwittingly through them.

PROTECTION TO EMIGRANTS.

Message from the President—Legislation by Congress Recommended to Remedy Existing Evils.

WASHINGTON, D. C., May 14.—The President today sent the following message to the Senate and House of Representatives:

In my message to Congress at the beginning of the present session, allusion was made to the hardships and privations inflicted on poor emigrants on shipboard and upon arrival on our shores, and a suggestion was made favoring national legislation for the purpose of effecting a radical cure of the evil. Promise was made that a special message on the subject would be presented during the present session, should information be received which would warrant it. I now transmit to the two Houses of Congress all that has been officially received since that time bearing upon the subject, and recommend that such legislation be had as will secure, first, such room and accommodation on shipboard as is necessary for health and comfort, and such privacy as will not compel emigrants to be unwilling witnesses to so much vice and misery; and, second, legislation to protect them upon their arrival at our sea-ports from the knaves who are ever ready to despoil them of the little they are able to bring with them. Such legislation will be in the interest of humanity, and seems to be fully justifiable. An immigrant is not the citizen of any State or Territory upon his arrival, but comes here to become a citizen of a great Republic, free to change his residence at will, to enjoy the blessing of a protecting Government where all are equal before the law, and to add to the national wealth by his industry. On his arrival he does not know States or corporations, but confides implicitly in the protecting arm of the great free country of which he has heard so much before leaving his native land. It is a source of serious disappointment and discouragement to those who start with means insufficient to support them comfortably until they can choose a residence and begin employment for a comfortable support, to find themselves subject to ill-treatment and every discomfort on their passage here, and at the end of their journey seized upon by professed friends, claiming legal right to take charge of them for their protection, who do not leave them until all their resources are exhausted, when they are abandoned in a strange land, surrounded by strangers, without employment, and ignorant of the means of securing it. Under the present system this is the fate of thousands annually, the exposures on shipboard and the treatment on landing driving thousands to lives of vice and shame who, with proper, humane treatment, might become useful and respectable members of society.

I do not advise national legislation in affairs that should be regulated by the States, but I see no subject more national in its character than provision for the safety and welfare of the thousands who leave foreign lands to become citizens of this Republic. When their residence is chosen they may then look to the laws of their locality for protection and guidance. The mass of immigrants arriving upon our shores, coming as they do on vessels under foreign flags, makes treaties with the nations furnishing these immigrants necessary for their complete protection. For more than two years efforts have been made on our part to secure such treaties, and there is now reasonable ground to hope for success.

U. S. GRANT.

Railroads and Land Grants in "Egypt"—A Contractors' Quarrel.

The suit of WILLIAMS and another against the Cairo and Fulton Railroad Company came up yesterday, in Supreme Court Chambers, before Judge LEONARD, on an order to examine the directors of the Company. The papers used on the motion disclose the facts to be that, when the Company was first organized, an agreement was entered into with POTTS & CO., granting the latter, in consideration of their constructing the road, all the stock, the State aid bonds and the first mortgage land grant bonds, the latter being limited to $5,000,000. POTTS & CO., it is also claimed, entered into an agreement with the plaintiffs, to which the Company was a party, whereby plaintiffs were to build the road. Fifteen hundred of the 5,000 land grant bonds had, they claim, been deposited with POTTS & CO., under the contract, but some difficulty arising, the directors entered into a contract, in fraud of the plaintiffs' rights, with one DENCKLA, from whom the directors were promised a bonus of half the capital stock, and in pursuance of this new agreement, after getting back the 1,500 bonds they had the mortgages canceled on the pledge of the trustees of the mortgage that no bonds were outstanding, and thereupon issued instead a new mortgage for 8,000 first mortgage land grant bonds. The disposal of these bonds the plaintiffs now seek to restrain, claiming substantially that, as they are able and willing to carry out the contract, these bonds must be held for their benefit; and in aid of a motion for this purpose, the present examination was called.

The Court reserved its decision.

As predicted yesterday, the regular ticket for the officers of the Stock Exchange for the ensuing year was the successful one, the opposition receiving but few votes. The following are the successful candidates: President, EDWARD KING; Chairman, M. A. Wheelock; Vice-Chairman, James Mitchell; Secretary, B. O. White; Treasurer, D. C. Hays; Governing Committee, (to serve one year,) George W. McLean, M. L. B. Martin, D. B. Hatch; (to serve two years,) John Benjamin; (to serve four years,) W. Seymour, Jr., W. B. Clerke, Frederick White, John B. Norris, H. H. Hollister, E. S. Munroe, William S. Nichols, George W. Fuller, Reuben Manley and W. E. Strong.

At 10½ o'clock yesterday morning, at the regular first board of the Exchange, the newly-elected officers were duly installed, short speeches being made by President KING, Chairmen WHEELOCK and MITCHELL, and Secretary WHITE. The retiring President, Mr. W. B. CLERKE, after repeated calls, also made a few remarks. It was resolved unanimously to request the Governing Committee to appropriate a requisite sum for the purchase of a service of plate to be presented to Mr. CLERKE, for his useful services to the Exchange.

The Peabody Gun.

The following letter is published as a contradiction of the statements recently made relative to the Peabody guns in Connecticut:

GENERAL HEAD-QUARTERS STATE OF CONNECTICUT,
ADJUTANT-GENERAL'S OFFICE,
NEW-HAVEN, May 1, 1872.

Marshall F. Benton, Esq., Agent Peabody Rifle Company, New-York:

SIR: In reply to your inquiry of 30th ult., I am not aware that any difficulty has been experienced in the use of the Peabody arms furnished this State, in combination with the Berdan cartridges adapted to them. The working of the arm and cartridges is, on the contrary, reported to give general satisfaction.

Yours, respectfully, S. E. MERWIN, Adjutant-General.

I concur in the above. L. A. DICKINSON, Quartermaster-General.

Gold and Stocks—The Rise in Pacific Mail.

The supplementary Alabama Treaty was discussed very generally in Wall-street yesterday. The present uncertainty regarding our relations with England, and the news that American securities are depressed abroad, affecting somewhat both the gold and stock markets. Gold advanced a little, stocks opening firm but declining in the afternoon. Pacific Mail, however, advanced to 87⅛, steadily, seeming to disregard the influences affecting the rest of the stock list. This stock engrossed considerable attention, the rise of 11⅛ per cent. in two days, being attributed to the covering of short contracts, and the contest for the approaching election.

The Board of Audit Disallow a Claim.

A resolution was passed at the last meeting of the Board of Audit, revoking the allowance of a claim for services as water policeman from JOEL PIKE, made in February last, and disallowing it. The resolution states that it has since been ascertained that PIKE had not performed any services during the three months named in his bill.

This is the only resolution it has been necessary to pass so far, revoking an allowance already made.

TUESDAY, May 14—P. M.

The active speculation in the Stock of the Pacific Mail Company was the feature of Wall-Street today. The rise in the Stock yesterday from 75 ₩ cent. last week to 82 ₩ cent. attracted much attention, but today the further rise to 85@85½ ₩ cent., after the first regular call of Stocks, created great excitement in the Hall of the Exchange, and gave rise to various rumors as to the extent of the short interest (undoubtedly large) in the Stock, the parties short, and the purpose of the promoters of the Stock—the Bull interest—as to the limit of the present advance. That the President of the Company, and his friends, favored by successful and most favorable legislation at Albany and Washington, and by their recent capture of the Panama Road, have made themselves masters of the situation in the speculation there is no question. The problem which the Street is called upon to solve is, how far they will press their advantage, and the doubt on this point causes, of course, a lively sensation in the Stock Exchange. At a late hour, the Stock rose from 85½ to 86@86½@87½ ₩ cent., but subsequently returned, and very suddenly, to 86@85½@85@85½@86 ₩ cent. There was so much of the attention of the Brokers absorbed by Pacific Mail, and the differences to be settled so enormous as against the sellers of last week at about 75 ₩ cent., and against the sellers in April at much lower figures, that the general speculation in the Railroads lost part of its importance, and the turn in prices in the Afternoon on most of the Western lines was to rather lower figures. The operators against North-west Common and Ohios pushed this advantage, and the sellers of Union Pacific, in the forenoon, availed of the rumor from Washington of adverse legislation on the question of Interest on the United States subsidy. The Panama Stock, now controlled by Pacific Mail, advanced to 123 ₩ cent. The Express Stocks were strong, the United States touching 80 ₩ cent. New-York Central Stock and Scrip and Harlem were fairly supported. In Southern State Bonds, Tennessees advanced to 71 ₩ cent., and South Carolinas dull at 35¾ ₩ cent.

The sales of Gold were ⅛ ₩ cent. dearer than yesterday. The Washington telegrams in regard to the settlement of the Treaty seemed to be unfavorable or threatening in the Senate, thus qualifying the London news of last night. The transactions in Gold were at 113⅞@113⅞@114 ₩ cent. The Export of the day was reported $700,000, and a further, but not very large shipment, is anticipated to-morrow. The sale of Bills on London were at 109⅛@109⅜ ₩ cent. for 60 days, and 110⅛@110⅜ for short sight. The business done for Wednesday's steamers is reported fair, but the disposition among the Bankers to make Bills at the present rates of Exchange is rather ahead of the demand. The Bills making against the remittances of the Public Funds of the United States and other American Stocks have increased since last week, and if a successful solution of the Washington Treaty is soon arrived at, the chances are that this operation will be very considerably enlarged. There is supposed to be a number of negotiations abroad now pending the settlement of this question.

The Brokers paid 6@7 ₩ cent. per annum for money, today, and the offerings from lenders, at or within these rates, were quite equal to the demand. The prevaling opinion of the prospective Bank movement for the Summer months is that the market for Money will be easy, but not at the low rates of last Summer.

In the afternoon, there was a bearish feeling manifested against most of the New-York and Western Roads, and nearly all prices were ⅛@⅜@1 ₩ cent. below the best sales of the morning. There was, withal, little or no break in the Pacific Mail speculation.

The quotations on the general market at the close of business hours were as follows, as compared with the last prices of Monday night:

The New-York Stock Exchange today paid the well-deserved compliment to the retiring President, Mr. CLERKE, of a unanimous vote of appreciation of his official services, rendered in a firm, faithful and dignified manner. The further mark of approbation in a service of plate has also been voted.

We understand there will be a special meeting of the Chamber of Commerce tomorrow, (Thursday,) at 2½ P. M., to give expression to the earnest wishes of the business people of New-York in favor of the acceptance by the United States Senate of the proposed supplemental article to the Treaty of Washington, as communicated by the President yesterday.

The Ohio and Mississippi Road will pay the Half-yearly Interest on the Preferred Stock of the Road, June 1. The transfers close May 22.

The Cleveland and Pittsburg Road will pay the guaranteed Quarterly Dividend of Two and a Half ₩ cent., payable June 1. The transfers close May 15, to-morrow.

The New-York Central and Hudson River Road, we understand, earned in April $2,250,000, by far the largest figure of any Road in the United States, and an excess of over $500,000 of the earnings of the Road in April, 1871. In this connection we may also state that the Lake Shore Road makes a gain from Jan. 1 to May 10 over last year of $1,100,000—or at the rate of a $3,000,000 gain for the year.

The earnings of the St. Louis and Iron Mountain Railroad, for the first week in May, were:

1872........	$44,885
1871........	29,835
Increase, 1872........	$15,050

Jan. 1 to May 8:

1872........	$735,627
1871........	552,654
Increase, 1872........	$182,973

The week's exports of Domestic Produce have been to the currency value of $3,741,808.

No. 5 NASSAU-ST., NEW-YORK.

The magnitude and importance of the CHESAPEAKE AND OHIO RAILROAD, as a short, low-grade, economical line of transportation between tide-water navigation and the principal cities of the Western States, is becoming more apparent as it approaches completion. Less than 100 miles of track remain to be laid to unite the Eastern and Western Divisions, upon which over 5,000 men are employed; the opening of the Through Line by Autumn next is, therefore, assured. The development of traffic on this thoroughfare will be immediate and very large, and within a few years the mineral traffic alone, furnished by iron and coal deposits along the route, will be sufficient to render it one of the most prosperous and profitable lines of communication in the country.

THE SIX PER CENT. BONDS OF THE CHESAPEAKE AND OHIO RAILROAD COMPANY

are entirely safe and satisfactory Securities for investment. Price, 94 and accrued interest. Interest payable May and November. Principal and interest payable in Gold in the City of New-York. Denominations, $1,000, $500 and $100, Coupon or Registered. Full information furnished on application.

THE BONDS OF THE CENTRAL PACIFIC RAILROAD COMPANY,

originally negotiated by us, which we now buy and sell at market rates, are widely known and highly esteemed in all the principal money markets of the world, and are dealt in at all the principal Stock Exchanges in this country and Europe, where they take rank in popularity and market value next to the Bonds of the U. S. Government. Present market price about 103.

We buy and sell GOVERNMENT BONDS, receive deposits, and allow interest on balances; make collections, issue certificates of deposit, and do a general banking business.

Text of Don Carlos' Proclamation to the Nation.

The full text of DON CARLOS' proclamation to the Spanish nation, already adverted to by telegraph, runs thus:

"SPANIARDS: It is the duty of the King either to save his people or to die for them. I give thanks to God, who has allowed me to kiss the sacred soil of my country, where my ancestors rest in their graves. I hail the great Spanish people, once foremost in the world, now one of the most unhappy. I feel happy because I find myself surrounded by Spaniards whom I am able to address from the depth of my heart. Their hearts will understand mine and respond to it. Spaniards, I am acquainted with your sorrows; I have heard your complaints. From all sides you have called upon me. Here I am. In my turn I call upon you, all of you, without any distinction of parties. I call upon all Spaniards, for they are all my brethren. The holy religion of our forefathers is persecuted; good men are oppressed; immorality is honored; anarchy is triumphant; the public treasury is pillaged; public credit threatened; industry dead! If things are to go on on this footing, the poor people will be reft of bread, and Spain of honor. Our fathers would not have endured so much. Let us be worthy of our fathers. Rise, Spaniards, for our God, for our country, and for your King! You know who I am, and also what I wish. What should I wish but the greatness and happiness of Spain? This Spain which is now lost, I wish to save her with your aid; with your aid I wish to establish a righteous Government, a Government worthy of the glorious days of our forefathers, and, at the same time, suited to the times we live in. I have no offenses to avenge. If any of you has any, let him forget or forgive them. Let us all be worthy of the high mission which doubtless Providence has intrusted to us—to save the Spanish people, and thereby, probably, be the beginning of salvation to all the other nations in the world. Spaniards! your ancient Kings before sitting on the throne swore that they would maintain the fundamental laws of Spain. I swear before God, and I take the whole world to witness, that I shall faithfully fulfill what I now solemnly promise. I swear that I will turn all my thoughts and employ all my forces to give you peace, justice and liberty. I swear that I will save the Spanish people, or will die for them. May God, who sees my heart, aid our efforts and crown our enterprise.

Your King, CARLOS.

Emile de Girardin Separated from His Wife.

The Civil Tribunal of the Seine has pronounced judgment on the twofold demand of separation and disavowal of paternity, formed by M. EMILE DE GIRARDIN against his wife. The publicist married, in 1856, Mlle. RUDOLPHINE BRUNOLD, Countess de Tiefenbach, and assigned her an annual income of 20,000f. When the Prussian war broke out the lady took refuge in England, whereas the gentleman remained during 1870 and 1871 either at Tours or Bordeaux, at the head-quarters of the Government. On Aug. 20, 1871, Mme. DE GIRARDIN gave birth, in London, to a girl, who was registered in her husband's name. The latter, finding himself under the conditions forseen by articles 312 and the following of the Penal Code, brought against his wife the double action above mentioned, on the ground that the child could not be his. The Court accorded the separation demanded, and fixed at 20,000f. the alimentary pension to be allotted to the defendant, in conformity with an offer made by M. DE GIRARDIN himself.

DAILY, WEEKLY AND SEMI-WEEKLY.

This journal is now thoroughly identified with the greatest political necessity of the hour—uncompromising warfare against all forms of corruption, whether in national or local government. For years past the TIMES has been exposing the demoralizing schemes of self-interested politicians, and its recent warfare upon the Tammany Democrats has been received with universal approval. It has adhered to the pledge given in its original prospectus, more than twenty years ago, that the public should be truly represented, and their interests faithfully guarded through its columns. Its record has been pure and honorable, and the highest aim of its proprietors is to render it more and more worthy of its past history, and of the confidence which the public repose in it. Two out of three of the original proprietors still direct its policy, and guide it on all public questions. They purpose that the TIMES shall continue to keep clear of all narrow and unworthy influences and cliques, and aim to represent the great body of the public, as distinguished from personal factions. It occupies a perfectly independent position, and is free to speak the truth on all subjects and about all men. Its greatly increased circulation throughout the country adds to its power and influence. It will continue to be a faithful exponent of Republican principles, recognizing the claims of American industry in adjusting the sources of revenue; and it will advocate with untiring energy every cause which tends to further the welfare of the people.

A very full summary of news, and many general articles of great interest, are published in the Semi-weekly editions; and in the Weekly edition there is an unabridged report of the proceedings at the Farmers' Club, an excellent summary of political information, and a great variety of matter suitable for family reading.

CAMPAIGN EDITION.

During the ensuing Presidential Canvass, we shall publish a SPECIAL WEEKLY EDITION for the convenience of those who desire the latest and most trustworthy political intelligence.

The CAMPAIGN EDITION of the NEW-YORK TIMES will be furnished to mail subscribers for the six months next ensuing, for the sum of FIFTY CENTS. All copies sent to the same Post-office to be mailed to one address.

The NEW-YORK TIMES is pre-eminently a family paper, all objectionable advertisements being rigidly excluded; and it has a constantly increasing circulation among the most respectable classes of the community.

Gov. HOFFMAN, it seems, nominated SMITH M. WEED as successor to Superintendent MILLER, in the full certainty that the nomination would be disapproved by the Senate, and thus leave him the excuse for taking no action at all. MILLER's deputy, CHURCH, will therefore act ad interim as Insurance Superintendent, and will furnish a standing illustration of how much Gov. HOFFMAN cares for reform.

Mr. FERRY yesterday succeeded in carrying his coalition with the Democrats into partial operation. Whether it will wholly succeed depends on whether any of the Republicans who have joined it can be made to see how plainly and completely they are playing into the hands of the Democrats. If Mr. FERRY is sent to the United States Senate again, he will be under such obligations to the Democratic Party that he will be substantially their representative. Any man who cannot see this must be blinded by prejudice or passion, and any one who, seeing it, still supports FERRY, must do so because he prefers Democratic principles to Republican principles. It is one of the most recent effects of that corrupt and wicked alliance with Democrats which Mr. GREELEY has been the means of introducing into our politics.

A fair idea of the composition of the Greeley faction in this State may be formed from the committee appointed yesterday to present the ticket to the country in an "address." The committee consists of JOHN COCHRANE, Mr. THEODORE TILTON, and Prof. WHITELAW REID. Verbum sap.

Our dispatches from Elmira show that the representatives of the party come together with no fears of a Greeley defection, of which the Tribune has exclusive news. The Convention today is sure to be not only enthusiastic, but confident of the strength of its principles with the people.

The passage of the Harbor-Masters' bill, and the bill for reforming Quarantine abuses, appears to have been rendered impossible by the efforts of a combination, headed by Mr. ALVORD. It is almost a pity that the adjournment of the Legislature will prevent Mr. ALVORD rising to another "question of privilege," and explaining to the satisfaction of the merchants of New-York his share in the suppression of these urgently-demanded measures of reform. His vote against the Emigrant Commissioners' bill, also stands greatly in need of explanation. When Mr. ALVORD is found voting for the perpetuation of the worst class of Tammany abuses, he will find that it needs something more than to metaphorically "trample" on the TIMES and its statements, to whitewash his record during the present Legislature.

A Good Riddance.

The Legislature adjourned yesterday—so much the better for the people of the State. A more incompetent, or perhaps a more corrupt, Legislature has never assembled. It was elected to carry out vital reforms, every one of which it has neglected. The two most influential men in it have been ALVORD and TOM FIELDS. The latter ought never to have been allowed to take his seat at all. It was clearly shown that he was counted in by fraud, and from the first to the last day of the session, he was actively engaged in thwarting every measure which was necessary to protect the public interests. If we cannot do better in electing future legislative bodies, it is a slight consolation to know we can never do worse.

It is a current story that at the outset of the session A. D. BARBER, the professional briber, looked over the list of names and made this pithy comment: "I have never seen a cheaper Legislature." Events corroborated this judgment. It was well known that speculators could at any time buy up the "whole concern" for less than five thousand dollars. We consider it a great compliment to us that the last hours of such an infamous body were spent in abusing the TIMES. We are, according to ALVORD, a "common sewer," and the same gentleman proposed to "trample" the said sewer "beneath his feet." We are also "infamous liars and base slanderers." In like manner, HUSTED (of gravel contract notoriety) denounces us as "cowards, liars and slanderers." Mr. VEDDER is of opinion that we ought to be "sunk to the deepest, damnedest depth of political perdition, and deeper still." We are very much obliged for these complimentary expressions. We will have them framed and glazed, and hung up outside our front door. We should be deeply mortified if the Legislature had expressed any other opinion of our conduct. We are aware that it boasted of a Republican majority; and frequent appeals were made to us by "friends" not to attack or expose the members, because it might "injure the party." But we happen to have made some sacrifices in the cause of Reform, and cared more for its success than for the success of any party We did our part, at least, toward inducing the general public to come out and vote last November against thieves and swindlers. It was, therefore, a disgusting spectacle to us to see a Legislature obviously in league with these thieves and swindlers. Nothing whatever has been done for the people, except what we have managed to extort. That little has been conceded most unwillingly. We have been on the side of the people as against men who gave bribes and men who took them. We are not afraid to have every article in this journal reviewed since December last, and to submit to the public the question whether we or the Legislature were in favor of right, truth, and justice. It was impossible to do any good with such a wretched set of dunderheads and scamps as met at Albany. There were two or three dozen honest men among them—at the very most. Mr. TILDEN, Mr. PRINCE, Mr. TOBEY, Mr. STRAHAN, and some others whose course we shall hereafter discuss, deserve great credit for the good work they did and the evil work they frustrated. But A. D. BARBER & Co. ruled the roast. It will be for the people to take care at future elections that such a gang are never brought together again in the dishonored walls of the Capitol.

From such a body no testimony in our favor could be so welcome to us as the wildest abuse. We are prouder of ALVORD's and HUSTED's curses than we should be of their blessings. We fearlessly say, and in no spirit of boasting, that we have done our duty—that we had no one to serve but the public; that arguments about injuring the party or the Administration were lost upon us; that we utterly rejected the numerous suggestions of "peace" offered to us on the part of ruffians like TOM FIELDS, or discredited "politicians" like HUSTED. The future will decide whether our opinion of them is not more just than their opinion of us. In the meantime, we dismiss a collection of stupid and dishonest schemers, leavened by a few able and upright men, to the contempt of the people of this State and of the entire country. May heaven forbid that the community should ever be cursed by an equally base rabble!

The Treaty of Washington.

The important matter of a new article in the Treaty of Washington bearing on "indirect claims," or of a new treaty, is referred to the Senate Committee on Foreign Relations. These gentlemen will, no doubt, remember what the uniform policy of this Government has been in the past, and what it is likely to be in the future. We are essentially and naturally a neutral Power. Out of all the wars which will occur during the next half century, this country will be a belligerent probably not in one out of twenty. Our great victories in international law have all been gained on the neutral side. We have always urged the most advanced views for the protection of neutrals. Our "mission" in the domain of international relations has hitherto been to keep war within as narrow limits as possible, to prevent the ordinary business and intercourse of the world from being disturbed, to protect weak and unoffending neutrals from being drawn into the struggles of great Powers, or being trampled on by superior strength—in fact, to confine belligerents to their own proper objects of injuring each other, and to prohibit them from disturbing peaceful Powers.

In this wise and humane course we have had the sympathy of Continental Europe as against Great Britain; and we have been enabled to build up a code of customs which has served greatly to protect neutral Governments. For the first time in our history, we have been led by exasperation caused by what we deemed the perfidy or neglect of the British authorities in the war of the rebellion, to prefer a claim directly opposed to our previous policy, and in opposition to the views of our old allies. If the "indirect claims" are settled as a principle, we have struck a blow against neutral security in the future, such as Great Britain never attempted. Should it become a maxim in international law that a neutral Power is responsible to a belligerent for the indirect consequences of the negligence or incapacity of its subjects, for the escape of privateers or the transmission of arms, or the sailing of unlawful expeditions, or any other illegal aid extended to the other belligerent, it is obvious that we expose neutral Powers to the most overwhelming claims for damages. If a war occurred between Great Britain and Spain or Brazil, a single Spanish or Brazilian steam privateer, escaping from our ports and manned and supplied by American citizens, might leave us open to claims of millions of damages.

Indeed, as M. LAVALEYE, the Belgian publicist said, it is conceivable that a single privateer escaping from a Belgian port, might cause damage enough to constitute a claim which all the property of Belgium could not pay. It is certainly for our interest as a neutral Power, not to urge "indirect claims." If the proposition now be to establish an article in international law, excluding in the future consequential damages as a thing to which a neutral may be liable, no Power should urge it more heartily than the United States. These claims were never urged by the Press, or the people, or the legislative or representative bodies of the people. They originated with Mr. SUMNER, though he now disclaims any pecuniary object in their presentation. If they had never been included in the treaty, no one would have offered an objection. When they did appear in the "American case," no journal defended them; no member of Congress has supported them; no intelligent person is ever found in private to argue for them as fair and reasonable claims; no public man or jurist has yet in this country offered a word in their favor, while such publicists as President WOOLSEY have denounced them, and it is well known in private that some of the United States Commissioners have expressed disapproval of them.

Why, then, should we hold to them? What possible interest has the country in pressing such extreme and absurd claims, and thus to overthrow a treaty highly advantageous to us, and defend a principle of international law entirely opposed to our policy? We trust the Senate Committee on Foreign Relations will decide the matter as statesmen, without regard to the voice of passion or the tricks of partisans. Let us have no "open quarrel" between two such powers from a question so unpractical and unreasonable, as a claim for consequential damages. The supplemental clause, whose fate now depends upon the Senate, ought to be at once agreed to. Even the organs of a partisan opposition have nothing but exploded platitudes to urge against it. The business community unanimously demands its insertion, and the overwhelming weight of public sentiment is in its favor. What possible reason, therefore, can be urged which would justify its rejection? Any proposal to make this a question between the friends and foes of the Administration is simply monstrous. The country would pass a very sharp verdict indeed upon the men who should be guided in their treatment of a question of vast national and, indeed, world-wide import, by petty considerations of personal politics. Success in such an attempt would even fail of its purpose to injure President GRANT, since it would throw upon the Senate the entire responsibility for adhering to the "indirect claims."

Abdicated.

Mr. GREELEY retires from the foreground of the Tribune—hereafter he will be content to dictate its policy in the background. The open attempt to make his paper a mere vehicle for puffing himself as Presidential candidate was a little too barefaced even for his practiced nerves. He will now suggest the puffing without rendering himself openly responsible for it. He will prompt the articles to which the signature of "H. G." will no longer be appended. The arrangement is not a very ingenious one, and probably it will not deceive the most simple-minded of all the men who still believe that Mr. GREELEY is an "honest, though misguided man." If Mr. GREELEY no longer blows the trumpet, he will take pretty good care that no other tune but his own is blown on it. It is perfectly safe for the proprietor of the show to stand behind the screen when he still continues to pull the strings of the puppets.

Mr. GREELEY acknowledges that his double character of journalist and candidate is "irksome and difficult." Difficult he will undoubtedly find it before he gets through—but it will not be less irksome now than it was before. The Tribune was HORACE GREELEY—there was nothing more in or of it than a celebrated name conferred. There never was a paper in the world which depended so much on the life of one man. By announcing his resignation, Mr. GREELEY injures his paper without disabusing the public mind of the conviction that it will remain his mouthpiece as a Presidential candidate. We cannot, for instance, imagine it criticising Mr. GREELEY adversely, or objecting to any course on which he had decided. Still less can we suppose that it would ever misrepresent his acts, as it is constantly misrepresenting the acts of Gen. GRANT. It will be nothing more nor less in the Presidential canvass than a personal organ, bound hand and foot to a Republican who is prepared to sell out his party to the Democrats for the sake of political advancement. A more immoral alliance was never proffered than that with which Mr. GREELEY is tempting the Democrats. We certainly hope that the Democrats will take him up. For then the nation will understand distinctly that they are asked to vote substantially for the return of the Democrats to power—for a general upheaval of our commercial system, for wild confusion in home and domestic affairs, for the return of JEFF. DAVIS to the Senate, for the revival of the Kuklux, for the not improbable payment of the "Southern debt," and for a state of affairs compared with which our condition in 1860 might almost be considered the millennium.

Gov. Hoffman and the Charter.

The Legislature has adjourned, and with Gov. HOFFMAN now rests the responsibility of giving to the citizens of New-York a chance of putting honest men into the positions filled by the nominees of a corrupt régime, which the people have long ago condemned. We do not imagine that anything we can say will have the slightest influence in determining the Governor's decision on the provisional charter, now in his hands. But it is desirable that the people should clearly understand the nature of the responsibility incurred by Gov. HOFFMAN in dealing with it. He is understood to be a candidate for re-election to his present office, and on his treatment of Senator PALMER's Charter must depend a final answer to the question, with what section of his party does Gov. HOFFMAN choose to be identified? By his veto of Mr. TILDEN's Over and Terminer bill, the Governor has given some color to the assertion that he considers his fortunes to be still identified with those of HALL and TWEED, and that he still courts the suffrages of the corrupt section of the party which indorsed them. Should he veto New-York's last chance for the year, of a responsible Government, it can only be on two grounds. Either he objects to HALL's removal, or to the clause prohibiting sectarian appropriations, or to both. Should he choose to espouse the cause of Mayor HALL, he will place himself in opposition to the declared sentiment of every honest man in this community, and by perpetuating the control of such a man over the affairs of the City, he will openly insult the self-respect and assail the Municipal credit of New-York. Should he direct his objections against the sectarian appropriation clause, he will sacrifice all that he gained by his 12th of July proclamation, and will reveal his determination to curry favor with the ignorant and bigoted masses, to whose dictation HALL and KELSO made their base surrender.

The New-York Herald, with its usual ponderous stupidity, calls upon the Governor to veto the charter. The Herald is to all intents and purposes a Romanist paper, and since the sectarian clause offends the priests, it denounces the whole charter. A considerable section of the Roman Catholics are violently opposed to any legislation which would effectually cut off their supply of public money. Their organ was thus driven to invent preposterous excuses for asking an Executive veto of the charter, and Gov. HOFFMAN is presented with a chance of winning back, through the influence of the priests, his lost quota of the Irish vote. It is by no means certain that the Governor will not close with the bargain. We may, then, next Fall see Gov. HOFFMAN indorsed by the Genets and the Nortons, who are still at the head of disreputable political gangs, who await the chances of putting plunderers in office once more; and sustained with an amount of Hibernian enthusiasm equal in warmth to the imprecations which followed his courageous 12th of July proclamation. If the Governor prefers this kind of support to that of the honest members of his party, it will be unfortunate for the City of New-York, but absolutely fatal, in a political sense, to himself.

A Liberal Republican.

The Tribune publishes prominently a speech made at Buffalo by one of the lights of the "Liberal" Republicans, WILLIAM DORSHEIMER, in which he elaborately arraigns Gen. GRANT and his Administration, taking up the charges in detail. Now we propose to make short work of this fraudulent reformer. Mr. DORSHEIMER first attacks Gen. GRANT for his action with reference to San Domingo. He says:

> "A young officer of the army, having no diplomatic authority, was sent to San Domingo to examine into the state of affairs, and returned with a treaty formally drawn and signed. This treaty the President urged upon the Senate and the country, and a crowd of eager speculators filled every lobby with open hands, ready to clutch the golden shower which San Domingo was to let fall upon them. After this, a statesman, upon whose long career there is no stain, no shadow of self-seeking, CHARLES SUMNER, went into open opposition. Before the storm of his indignation and contempt the treaty crawled out of sight."

Now we assert and dare Mr. DORSHEIMER to deny that at the Republican State Convention at Rochester, he spent hours in endeavoring to have a resolution reported by the Committee on Resolutions, which should fully and unqualifiedly indorse Gen. GRANT's course with reference to San Domingo, and that to this end he endeavored to pack the Committee on Resolutions through the influence of the same Government officers whom he now denounces, he (DORSHEIMER) being himself at the time a United States officer.

Mr. DORSHEIMER makes the introduction of the claims for indirect damages into our Alabama case another cause of attack on the Administration, and the Tribune applauds him, though it insists that to withdraw them is craven and wicked. Reformer DORSHEIMER's other charges arise out of the French arms investigation, the Custom-house, and the election to our State Legislature of certain persons. Mr. DORSHEIMER's sensitive spirit was not shocked at the course of Gen. GRANT until after he had, within the brief space of a year, persistently sought from Gen. GRANT two, if not three, offices, and the President had failed to discern Mr. DORSHEIMER's transcendent merits or valuable services to the Republican Party. Gen. GRANT did not think that the man who, as District-Attorney, had failed to convict anybody, or to win any cause of importance, was the man in whose hands the Alabama claims should be placed. Hence DORSHEIMER's pure heart was broken. He suppressed the elaborate statement he had prepared, attacking Mr. GREELEY for his course in the negotiations with SANDERS and others at the Clifton House during the rebellion, swallowed his fine free-trade theories, and rushed off to nominate and support HORACE GREELEY, the champion of protection. He is a worthy associate of COCHRANE and MURRAY, of HUTCHINS and ROCKEY MOORE, of VAN CLEFT and COACHMON.

The Park-Lane Murder.

The extradition embarrassment arising from the case of the woman MARGUERITE DIXBLANCS, being a Belgian subject, has been disposed of at last, and she has arrived in London in custody of the officers. Some odd things are recorded of her, one of which is that while she displayed the most absolute equanimity before, she burst into a flood of tears on her request being refused to be supplied with newspapers. "Mon Dieu!" she cried, "they wish, then, to kill me with ennui!" After this, however, "she chatted pleasantly with the French inspectors," and got into high spirits on a letter being translated to her, written by a solicitor named BESLAY, offering to defend her before the English Courts, and pointing out the extenuating circumstances in her case. It seems that DIXBLANCS really thinks, or pretends to think, that she will not be hung, because her mistress, Mme. RIEL, had a bad temper. Doubtless it would be better were there fewer bad-tempered people in the world, but to entertain the idea that this method of diminishing them must be generally acceptable, is an advance on our present theories.

Another singular feature about the arrival of DIXBLANCS in London is the fact that a man, one THOMAS LEWIS, gave himself up on hearing of it, declaring that he had assisted the woman in the murder. He was taken into custody and committed, but it soon appeared that he could by no means have been anywhere near the scene of the tragedy, and that in truth he had never seen either DIXBLANCS or her victim in his life. Further inquiry disclosed the fact that LEWIS was excessively drunk on the night he surrendered himself, and that his charge against himself was simply a wild freak of intoxication. He was dismissed with a fine of a shilling, and a sharp admonition, on solemnly promising that he would "never take another drop again." Thus DIXBLANCS will have to bear the responsibility of her crime alone. The points in her favor are her instant and ready confession of her guilt, the bitter provocation she alleges she received, and, as her counsel will doubtless argue, the absence of premeditation. How far the ugly letter she sent to Paris before the murder, announcing her speedy coming, and subsequently her intent to go to America, may weaken this defense, remains to be seen. In any event, the public have the satisfaction of knowing that the trial will be promptly gone on with, and that there will not be in the case of MARGUERITE DIXBLANCS those painful delays that seem a mockery of justice in such cases as those of FOSTER, or STOKES, or, which is still more apposite, that of Mrs. LAURA D. FAIR.

Making Game of the Ladies.

Game in England, it is tolerably well known, is treated as property, and very jealously guarded. Poaching on private preserves is there deemed a crime, very much like burglary or house-breaking with us, and punished with exceptional severity. Nevertheless, as it is difficult to persuade the uneducated mind that any one can hold property in the birds of the air or the beasts of the field, so long as they are yet untamed or caught, poaching, in spite of penalties, is not at all uncommon. Hence the employment of game-keepers, and the picturesque midnight battles with those predatory sportsmen which have so long delighted the readers of English fictions. It is one of those fine old English customs, indeed, which the fine old English gentleman loves to dwell on, and which he secretly regards as one of the bulwarks of British liberty. If here and there a game-keeper is beaten to death, or a poacher or two shot—incidents of not infrequent occurrence—the loss is as nothing, except possibly to their families, compared with the protection of field sports from vulgar contamination.

In a country so shockingly deficient in taste as not to have any castles, it is hardly to be expected that we should encourage this gentlemanly and feudal usage. For the romantic personality of the old country poacher we have been able hitherto to offer only the vulgar and common-place attributes of the chicken-thief. But in certain parts of the country there appears to be a movement to do away with this reproach on our institutions. Rustic valor seems to have resolved to make game of local beauty, and to guard it by force and arms, if need be, from the depredations of urban invaders. The fascination which civic ease and grace always exert over the simple hearts of village maidens is as proverbial as the furious jealousy aroused thereby in the breasts of slighted village swains. The gay "drummer," or the polished bagman, lures Phyllis with a single smile from the very arms of her untraveled Damon. It seem to have been from a well-founded dread, and perhaps some bitter experience of this malign influence, that the beaus of Carthage, in this State, lately formed a league, offensive and defensive, to protect their feminine preserves, and to prohibit Metropolitan poaching, under penalty of death. Fate led to their pleasant village a gallant New-Yorker—some errant Æneas, let us say, seeking a new site for a ruined Ilium of dry goods or hardware. Instantly all the Didos of the neighborhood were prostrate at his irresistible feet. Naturally, the cavaliers of Carthage took umbrage at this audacious success of a stranger, and when Æneas actually perpetrated the crowning outrage of a serenade, it was felt that only his blood could wipe out the insult. Accordingly, two local champions, named FORD and CLARK, were deputed to avenge the woes of Carthage on the body of the insolent intruder. They met him at midnight returning from amorous dalliance, and proceeded to fulfill their mission. Before the superior force, Æneas, like his prototype at the onset of the vengeful Achilles, retreated to his hotel, procured a revolver, and sallied forth to renew the conflict. Then ensued a terrific battle in which everybody was more or less shot, Æneas and one of the Carthaginians dangerously, the other, we regret to say, being wounded slightly but ignominiously in the back.

Whether this resolute action of the Carthage beaus will have the desired effect, and deter other amorous poachers, is at least doubtful. Much more likely will it be to stimulate that spirit of adventure which has ever been the spice of love, and so place the local suitor in a worse plight than ever. Then we shall probably have him appealing to the Legislature for protection, and calling for the enactment of laws to secure his fair ones from the snares and serenades of prowling, insidious New-Yorkers. It is impossible not to lend a certain measure of sympathy to the woes of the bucolic lover, and perhaps some amendment of the game laws may be devised for his relief.

MINOR TOPICS.

"Professional gamblers and prize-fighters" are terms which the Liberal papers object to see applied to any of Mr. GREELEY's supporters. Yet, the organ of Tammany in this City recently published the following:

> "The Tammany Committee of Thirteen on Organization met last evening at Tammany Hall, HENRY W. GENET in the chair. Among those present were Judge SHANDLEY, Judge LEDWITH, Judge DODGE and JOHN MORRISSEY. Mr. MORRISSEY, in conversation with Judge LEDWITH and others, said that HORACE GREELEY ought to receive the support of the Democracy, and in that event he will not only be elected, but the Democracy would be able to carry a majority of the Congressional districts of this State, and would probably secure a majority of the next House of Representatives."

The accounts from the South African gold-fields are losing their roseate hues, and are calculated to invite the reflection: "Well, I'm very glad we didn't go after all," in the breasts of those who, coming under the head of "mere adventurers, without money," had, a correspondent says, "much better stay at home, for their hour is past." It is stated that there is now only one field where diggers cover their expenses. It was found at Melbourne that but few of the successful diggers were any the better for their gains ten years later, whilst many were considerably the worse, having drunk themselves nearly to death. That city is full of people today who have not as many tens as they once had thousands. Those benefited were the buyers of the gold, and those who supplied the drink and the accommodation. It will probably be the same in South Africa.

We have more than once adverted to that rage for joint-stock company enterprises which, since the war, has seized the Berlinese, and changed the easy, quiet-going Prussian capital into a hot-bed of commercial excitement. These undertakings for every conceivable branch of industry continue to rise with mushroom-like rapidity, and probably will, before long, fall with a corresponding celerity. The Exchange, one of the most spacious in Europe, has been found all too small for its greatly-increased business, and large additions are projected.

By a typographical error, a quotation from the Oestliche Post on Monday was printed in these columns as from the Westliche Post. Anybody familiar with the errors of the Press will easily see how such an error occurred. The Tribune calls it a deliberate forgery on our part—an absurd charge, of which we should take no notice but for its statement that Senator SCHURZ believes in it. If Senator SCHURZ thinks we willfully mentioned his paper instead of the Ostliche Post, we will, to disabuse his mind of that impression, forward him the original copy of the article in question, as well as the printer's proofs, from which he will see plainly enough how the mistake occurred. In the meantime, anybody else is at liberty to see these documents.

The nomination of the Marquis DE NOAILLES as Minister to Washington seems to meet with a considerable degree of favor at the hands of French Republican editors. He is considered in every way the superior of JULES FERRY, whose appointment was at one time looked for as an event sure to occur. The Courrier de France is particularly well pleased that the choice of the French Government has fallen upon a man who, in addition to being a pronounced Republican, has the advantages of a noble name and a thorough training in the art of diplomacy. The Courrier thinks that France has special need for the services of such men at the present time, and rejoices most heartily that the acknowledged ability of the Marquis is to have scope near the Government of a sister Republic.

During the past week, the residents of Stuyvesant-square, and all that part of the City lying between Third-avenue and the East River, have suffered more or less from nausea, in consequence of a foul stench which has been wafted through the windows on the night air. Already many families have been compelled to remove to other neighborhoods, in order to escape its deadly effect. There are numerous theories as to the source of the stench, some believing that it comes from the gas-houses, while others favor the notion that it can be traced to a well-known chemical-works in Nineteenth-street. But the filthy condition of the streets from Second-avenue to the river probably has a great deal more to do with the abominable odor than either the gas-houses or the chemical-works. An intelligent inspector could find out all about it in less than a day, if the Board of Health could be persuaded that time spent in such a way would not be altogether unprofitable.

An event which a few months ago befell Prof. AGASSIZ recalls the misdoings of Sir ISAAC NEWTON's little dog Diamond. In an excursion to the Southern Parabyba River, the Professor obtained a number of undescribed species of fishes, some of them entirely unknown to science, which he sealed up in a copper barrel filled with alcohol for future examination. While visiting at a gentleman's house on the way back, the barrel was placed in the basement for safe keeping; but the cook of the establishment, in her super-serviceable zeal, fried the fishes for the Professor's breakfast.

The present managers of the Erie Railway owe it to the traveling public that an immediate reorganization should be made in the force of brakemen and switch-tenders in their employ. During the old régime most, if not all, the accidents which occurred were due either to the negligence or incompetency of these men. As recently as Friday of last week, a Coroner's jury in New-Jersey brought in a verdict to the effect that the death of a man named CORRIGAN had been caused by the carelessness of a switch-tender. The jurors at the same time took occasion to censure the Company for employing incapable servants. With such men as GOULD at the head of affairs, the censure or praise of a New-Jersey Coroner's jury would be of little matter; but better things are expected of the new management, and it is to be hoped that they may not be looked for in vain.

A great many, if not all, of the cars on the Second-avenue, Third-avenue, Belt Line and Cross-town street railroads still remain in a decidedly unclean condition, although it is now several weeks since a report setting forward this fact was presented to our model Health Board. The cushions are nearly all so filthy that cleanly-dressed persons prefer to stand, rather than come in contact with them. The railroad companies, it is plain to be seen, will never spend a cent for sanitary purposes without being required to do so. The screws must, therefore, be put on at once, if we are to have wholesome conveyances, instead of moving nurseries for contagious diseases.

MISS NININGER'S CONCERT.

The complimentary concert by which Miss PAULINE NININGER benefited occurred at Irving Hall last evening. It was not so satisfying as it ought to have been. Señor SARASATE did not appear, and Miss ADELAIDE MANZOCCHI arrived at a late stage of the proceedings. The most interesting incidents of the performance were Miss AGNES PALMER's recital of "Una voce poco fa;" a duo from PACINI's "Saffo," by Misses NININGER and PALMER, whose voices, combined with an effect harmonious in no common degree, and a French song, "La Lune de Miel," recited with consummate skill and rare variety of expression of Mme. MARIETTA GAZZANIGA. Miss MANZOCCHI's piano-playing is distinguished by a command of technique very exceptional in one so young. The little lady contributed to the entertainment two fantasias on themes from "Lucia" and "Gli Ugonotti." The remaining artists were Mr. BARTLETT, and Signori ALBITES and LEONI. As Mr. SANTLEY sang "Il balen," it is quite natural that every baritone now before the public should essay that well-known production, and quite certain that each one will fail in the effort to efface the recollection of Mr. SANTLEY. Mr. BARTLETT was very felicitous in setting the example. Signor LEONI's merits are known already to the habitual reader. His solos, yesterday, were "Comme à vingt ans," a chansonette for which his voice and style are rather robust, and the serenade from "Il Trovatore." In the "Rigoletto" quartet, with which the concert terminated, Signor LEONI introduced tears into the amorous assurances of the Duke to Maddalena. The circumstances were not of a kind to provoke an evidence of deep emotion, if even the words of the score prompted such a sentiment.

Quarterly Meeting of the Bar Association—Report of the Committee on Impeachment.

The Bar Association held its regular quarterly meeting last evening at the head-quarters, No. 20 West Twenty-seventh-street, Vice-President E. S. VAN WINKLE in the chair. The Treasurer's report shows the amount in general fund to be $7,395 28, and in library fund, $61 01, making a total of $7,456 29, of which $5,000 are in the United States Trust Company, and $2,456 29 in bank. The following persons were then elected: Granville P. Hawes, No. 170 Broadway; Alexander B. Crane, No. 92 Broadway; James Knox, No. 133 Nassau-street; Charles Crary, No. 104 Broadway; Edward H. Smith, No. 27 Chambers-street; James M. Slevin, No. 120 Broadway; Hiram B. Crosby, No. 15 Nassau-street; Morris M. Budlong, No. 20 Nassau-street; William E. Stiger, No. 15 Nassau-street; William R. Darling, No. 56 Wall-street.

Mr. M. L. TOWNSEND, as Chairman of the Special Committee on the Marine Court, reported that the Committee had prepared charges and proceeded with them to Albany, where they were laid before the Governor on Wednesday last. At first, the Governor was uncertain of his constitutional power to remove Judge CURTIS, under the doubt whether or not the Marine Court was a Court of Record within the meaning of the statute; but on the Committee presenting proofs, he concluded that he had the power, with the concurrence of the Senate. Judge CURTIS was notified and appeared on Friday, when he begged for time to prepare his answer to the affidavits. He was given until Monday last, when he again appeared with counsel and asked for further time, which was granted by the Governor, who directed the Committee to serve the affidavits on Judge CURTIS' counsel, and for the latter to serve his reply on the Committee. The time for the investigation was fixed for the 28th inst., the Governor having the belief that a special Senate would be called to investigate similar matters, and he therefore did not think it advisable, as the Senate was about to adjourn, to lay the matter before the Senate at the present time, but to wait until the special Senate was convened. The Speaker believed the Governor was satisfied that the matter of Judge CURTIS was a proper case to be investigated with the view of removing him from office.

The report was accepted and the Committee instructed to continue in office.

On the motion to adjourn, Judge DAVIS recommended that the adjournment be until May 28, which should be devoted to the hearing of the report of the Judiciary Committ of the Bar Association, who had so far succeded in the work entrusted to them as to cause the removal of one Judge, whose place has already been filled by a worthy gentleman, and the impeachment of another by the Legislature. The work thus accomplished was a matter that required some little special consideration by the Association, and at a time before the next regular monthly meeting. He would therefore recommend that the adjournment be for only two weeks. This recommendation being accepted, the meeting adjourned until the time named.

Annual Meeting of the Mercantile Library Association.

The fifty-first annual meeting of the Mercantile Library Association was held last evening in the Reading-room, Clinton Hall. Mr. ARTHUR W. SHERMAN presided. The annual report was presented and accepted. The Treasurer's report sets forth that the receipts for the year of the Mercantile Library were $44,678 31; of Clinton Hall Association, $23,421 02. Total, $68,099 33. Expenditures: Mercantile Library Association, $43,213 07; Clinton Hall Association, $18,912 71; total balance in hand, $5,973 55. The income is the largest the Association ever received. The number of books added during the year were 11,139; present number of volumes in library, 137,208. Active members, 6,080; subscribing members, 4,333; stockholders and honorary members of both institutions, 1,946. The average daily circulation of books has been 836 volumes, and the total yearly circulation, 259,845. The largest daily circulation was on Jan. 20, when 1,772 volumes were issued. The proceedings were closed with a formal vote of thanks to the managers of the institution.

The Brooklyn Reformers in Secret Council.

The Brooklyn Committee of Seventy-five held an unannounced meeting on Monday evening, on the call of the President, in the office of the Brooklyn Gas Company. A resolution of Mr. ESCHWERGE was adopted, instructing the Executive Committee to report a plan of reorganization, with a view to operations during the coming campaign. A dispatch was also forwarded to the Kings County Senators, urging the passage of an act to compel the Bridge Company and the Water Board to open their books to the inspection of the Committee.

THE POLITICAL FIELD.

Conventions Today in New-York, Tennessee and Nebraska.

Sentiment of the Republican State Delegates at Elmira.

Greeley's Apostacy Causes no Defection—Outspoken and Patriotic Declaration of Principles—Strength of the Feeling for Grant—The Democrats at Rochester.

Special Dispatch to the New-York Times.

ELMIRA, N. Y., May 14.—No political Convention was ever composed of better material, and none was ever more confident of the future, than that of the Republican Party of New-York which assembles in this city to-morrow. Nearly all the delegates have now arrived, and they bring the most cheering news from every part of the Empire State. Nowhere has Greeleyism inflicted any injury. Nowhere is there any defection in the party threatened or accomplished. Everywhere the ranks are closed, and although here and there a few deserters have fallen out, to follow JEFF. DAVIS's surety in his desolate march to the Democratic camp, they are so few that their absence is scarcely noted. From conversations had with gentlemen of the highest character from every portion of the State, I am convinced that the Republican Party of New-York was never in a better condition than it is today. GREELEY appears to have little influence outside of a few soreheads and the Tammanyites of the city. Even St. Lawrence County, which has been his stronghold, is here solid for the Republican Party, and in November will roll up more than the usual majority for the Philadelphia nominees. The same story comes from all quarters—enthusiasm for GRANT and no sympathy for GREELEY.

CHARACTER AND PRINCIPLES OF THE CONVENTION.

The Convention to-morrow will be one of the most harmonious, as it will be one of the most respectable that has ever assembled in the State. There is to be an honest expression of Republican sentiment, and there is no uncertainty about its tone. Hon. EDWARDS PIERREPONT, who will probably be Chairman of the Committee on Resolutions, has drawn up a declaration of principles which will doubtless be adopted by the Convention. Herein there are unequivocal enunciations in favor of amnesty, civil rights, abolition of income tax, and of the franking privilege, with unqualified indorsement of President GRANT, and a demand that he shall be renominated by the Republicans at Philadelphia. His great deeds as a soldier and his greater victories in peace as evidenced by the steady reduction of the debt and taxes, resulting in the unparalleled prosperity of the country, will be cited as proofs of this claim to the confidence of the American people.

CANDIDATES.

The Convention will undoubtedly instruct the delegates to be chosen to vote for Gen. GRANT for President in the Philadelphia Convention, but no preference for the Vice-Presidency will be indicated. New-York upon this point will be left to act as the best interests of the party may at the moment of nomination dictate.

DELEGATES TO PHILADELPHIA.

As a proof that the Convention is to be a perfectly free and untrammeled expression of popular feeling, it may be said that as yet not a single caucus of any kind has been held, nor has anything yet been arranged as to delegates to Philadelphia. Not a single Congressional district has settled upon its man, and not a name has been selected for any one of the eight delegates at large. This is perfectly authentic, and whatever names may be mentioned will only be haphazard guesses, without any foundation in fact. I might mention many such names as Judge Edwards Pierrepont, Gen. Robinson, Hon. John H. Selkreg, Senator Woodin, and others of the foremost men of the State, some of whom will undoubtedly be among the delegates, but I would thereby convey the impression that the names have already been selected, when the contrary is the fact.

ENTHUSIASM FOR GRANT.

To-night Elmira is alive with enthusiasm for GRANT. Young Men's Grant Clubs have been parading the streets with torches, transparencies and music. They called first at the Rathbun House, where Gen. STILLMAN FOOTE, of St. Lawrence, was called out and pledged that stronghold of Republicanism to do as well as ever before. Hon. JOHN H. SELKREG, of Tompkins, next spoke, and said that standing on the edge of the two great States of New-York and Pennsylvania, he could repeat the cry of the ancient watchman—"All is well." In Tompkins they knew but little about farming, [laughter,] and, probably, less about politics; but they knew the taxes had been lessened while the debt had been reduced, and they were all for GRANT, by whom this miracle had been wrought. Other speakers followed from the balcony of the hotel, arousing great enthusiasm, after which the band and procession proceeded to the residence of Ex-Senator NICKS, on Main-street, where a public reception was in progress.

Here Judge PIERREPONT was first introduced to the multitude, but only said a few words in hearty eulogium of GRANT, and introduced ISAAC H. BAILEY, who delivered a brief but powerful speech in favor of the re-election of Gen. GRANT, whom he declared not only the most successful soldier of modern times, but the most honest and efficient Chief Magistrate in the later history of the Republic. He had been accused of abuse of the appointing power, but these reports had invariably come from men who had failed to be appointed, and after six months of industrious search he had failed to find a single individual who had any proof that GRANT had in any way failed in his duty.

After Mr. BAILEY came Hon. CHAS. S. SPENCER, who wittily compared Mr. GREELEY to the two-faced Janus looking to protection and free trade, to the slaves and the slave-drivers, and to both sides of all the leading questions in recent politics. All the speakers of the evening were distinct in their declarations that no service in the past, however great, could now be pleaded in mitigation of an attempt to divide the Republican Party, and all these declarations were received with unbounded applause.

NO FOLLOWERS OF GREELEY'S APOSTACY.

As the net result of the demonstration of the evening, it was evident that there are few Republicans who are even considering the propriety of following Mr. GREELEY in his apostacy.

At a late hour to-night there are no developments of probable action to-morrow in addition to those, except that Hon. HENRY R. PIERSON, of Albany, will probably be both temporary and permanent Chairman of the Convention.

ROCHESTER.

A Large Gathering of the Democracy—Nothing Definite Determined Upon, Though the Pressure for Greeley is Strong.

Special Dispatch to the New-York Times.

ROCHESTER, May 14.—The delegates to the Democratic State Convention are arriving this evening in considerable numbers. The New-York express, which arrived here at 10 o'clock, brought most of the delegates from New-York and parts east of here. The prospect is that the Convention will be fully attended, but will not attract a very large outside crowd.

WM. C. DEWITT, the Ring Corporation Counsel of Brooklyn, is here as a delegate from that city, and intends to lead off to-morrow in a speech advocating the indorsement by the New-York Democracy of GREELEY as their candidate for President. The speech was prepared in the Tribune office, under the direct supervision of GREELEY himself, and will be launched upon the Convention with all the sophomorical fervor and blatant oratory for which Counselor DEWITT is noted in his own circle. Printed side by side with the speech made by the same individual when he presided as temporary Chairman over TWEED'S Convention, held here a year ago last Fall, it would afford a curious contrast.

There is a great pressure in favor of the indorsement of GREELEY'S nomination, and on the surface the feeling appears to be unanimous in that direction; but there are many cool and determined politicians here who will oppose it strenuously. Those who clamor for GREELEY admit frankly that his nomination by the Democracy would be a total abandonment of all the principles of the party; but they urge it as necessary to break down the Republican Party and put them in a position to win a distinctive Democratic triumph in 1876, while it could not, in their judgment, fail to give them immediately a large accession of members of Congress, and put them in possession of several of the State Governments. The more noisy of the party act as if they were famished by their long abstinence from power, and avow themselves ready to make any bargain or any surrender which will give it to them.

There are two full sets of delegates from New-York City—the re-organized Tammany delegation and the Apollo Hall Reformers. Members of the State Committee say their claims will be harmonized by a compromise, as none of the delegations on either side are strictly regular.

THE GREELEYITES.

The Liberal Republicans in Council—What They Did at the Astor House—A Small Gathering.

A meeting was called for yesterday afternoon, at the Astor House, by persons calling themselves the "State Committee of the Liberal Republicans," for the purpose of effecting an organization. At the hour set down, a handful of men entered Room No. 41, situated on an out-of-the-way corridor of that building, and as they were less in number than the reporters in attendance, it was deemed advisable to hold a secret session, whereupon the representatives of the Press were politely advised to "get out." Room No. 41 is a large apartment, and looked vacant when both reporters and delegates were present, consequently the vacancy became the more marked when the latter retired. The door was then closed, and as the number was not painted thereon, the few delegates "from the country" that came late, had great difficulty in finding the place of meeting, even when they had arrived on the corridor.

After waiting considerable time, it was decided that those present should be considered a quorum, and they proceeded to business by JOHN COCHRANE taking the chair, and ALBERT WILKINSON acting as Secretary. Of course JOHN COCHRANE made one of his usual speeches, in which he said the party he represented was (as has been the case in all the parties he has been in during his political career) the only right one. In this view he was supported by Gen. KILPATRICK, A. M. BLISS, WALDO HUTCHINS and THEODORE TILTON. During one of the speeches a man brought in the news that FERRY had been elected, whereupon the handful of men, by shouting, stamping, cheering and clapping hands, made as much noise as would have been expected at a large meeting. Beyond this effusion no one passing along the corridor could have imagined that anything extraordinary was being done in room No. 41. The subject of organization was then discussed, and it was resolved to proceed after the plan of the Fremont campaign, namely, to have a uniform rule for the organization of every county in the State. One of the country delegates suggested that "FREMONT was defeated," but the Chairman gazed at him as if to convince him that he had no right to say anything about defeat under such critical circumstances. All Liberal Republicans and others were to be invited to come into the organizations, and to work for the interests of the Cincinnati platform and nominees. A Committee of three was appointed on address, consisting of Gen. Cochrane, Theodore Tilton and Whitelaw Reid. An Executive Committee was then chosen, embracing nearly all the delegates present, and consisting of Gen. Cochrane, A. Wilkinson, E. A. Willis, M. L. Filkins, J. W. Hasbrook, E. A. Merritt and J. W. Coe, and to this Committee was given the general control of the canvass. A proffer was made by the Liberal Club that the "State Committee" should make their head-quarters at their Club-room, No. 20 East Twenty-first-street, which offer was gladly accepted. The subject of a State Convention was talked of, and indefinitely postponed. Some conversation was then had on the matter of a ratification meeting, and this was also laid over for a few days. After smoking a few cigars at somebody's expense, the Committee adjourned, subject to the call of the Chair.

A Card.

The Tribune has ceased to be a party organ, but the unexpected nomination of its editor at Cincinnati seems to involve it in a new embarrassment. All must be aware that the position of a journalist, who is at the same time a candidate, is at best irksome and difficult; that he is fettered in action and restrained in criticism by the knowledge that whatever he may say or do is closely scanned by thousands, eager to find in it what may be interpreted as to annoy or perplex those who are supporting him as candidate, and to whom his shackled condition will not permit him to be serviceable. The undersigned, therefore, withdraws absolutely from the conduct of the Tribune, and will, henceforth, until further notice, exercise no control or supervision over its columns.

MAY 15, 1872. HORACE GREELEY.

CATTARAUGUS COUNTY.

Cincinnati Candidates at a Discount—Gen. Grant Sustained by the Masses.

From Our Own Correspondent.

CATTARAUGUS, Saturday, May 11, 1872.

Liberal Republicanism receives but little sympathy in this county. Outside of Senator FENTON'S immediate followers very few Republicans express any sympathy with it whatever, and among them only an occasional one dares to avow his intention of supporting the Cincinnati nominations. Cattaraugus County has elected six stanch Grant men as delegates to the State Convention. The delegates from the First District are Hon. H. Van Aernan, Hon. Alonzo Hawley, Gen. Roy Stone. Alternates—Daniel Brown, Hon. H. G. Button, G. W. Dickinson. The delegates from the Second District are John Nelson, A. W. Ferrin, editor Cattaraugus Republican; Wm. Cooper, Jr. Alternates—Hon. S. C. Green, Hon. Wm. H. Stewart, John F. Mosier. The Convention in the Second District unanimously passed resolutions indorsing President GRANT'S Administration, instructing its delegates to use every effort to secure his renomination, and unqualifiedly condemning all attempts to break up the Republican Party by the nomination of so-called Liberal Republicans. The Second District has heretofore been under the influence of Senator FENTON, but his recent action has destroyed his influence here. Many Republicans who have given him a cordial and hearty support heretofore say they cannot indorse his late movement, and that they propose to stand by the regular nomination of the party.

GRANT is very popular here with the masses, and he will receive an enthusiastic support, if nominated at Philadelphia.

CONNECTICUT SENATORSHIP.

The Democrats and Bolting Republicans Support O. S. Ferry—His Election Probable in Joint Convention Today.

Special Dispatch to the New-York Times.

NEW-HAVEN, May 14.—The treachery of sixteen Republicans in the House today caused the election of O. S. FERRY as United States Senator—the Democrats voting in a body for him—by a vote of 125 to 111 for JOSEPH R. HAWLEY. The Senate elected HAWLEY—14 to 7. Both Houses will meet in joint convention to-morrow, under the United States law, and the Democrats have caucused to-night to hold their men up to the rack for the vote then. There is some doubt about the votes of several of the bolting Republicans, who may have voted for FERRY today to satisfy pledges. Provided there is the same numerical strength in the Convention as in the two Houses, and the same division on candidates, the vote will stand—FERRY 132, HAWLEY 125. A change of four votes will elect HAWLEY. The result, so far, causes intense excitement and indignation among Republicans in the greater part of the State. The bolt is altogether confined to Fairfield County and a portion of New-Haven County.

PHILADELPHIA CONVENTION.

Railroad Accommodation for Those Intending to be Present.

PHILADELPHIA, May 14.—For the convenience of delegates, and others designing to attend the Philadelphia Convention, all competing roads have agreed to issue round trip tickets at about half rates, good for the passage to the city from May 25 to June 6, and returning from June 5 to the 15th. The parties to the arrangement include the Reading, Northern Pennsylvania, Philadelphia and Baltimore, Baltimore and Ohio, Erie, Philadelphia and Erie, Northern Central, and Pennsylvania Central, including the leased roads connecting with the latter.

Williamsport, Penn., Municipal Election—A Republican Victory—Large Gains Over Last Year's Vote.

Special Dispatch to the New-York Times.

WILLIAMSPORT, Penn., May 14.—STARKWEATHER, Republican, is elected Mayor by 150 majority. This is a Republican gain over last year of 350. The entire Republican ticket is elected by largely increased majorities.

Tennessee Republican State Convention—Enthusiasm for Grant.

NASHVILLE, May 14.—A large number of delegates to the Republican State Convention have arrived. They are representative men of the party, and enthusiastic for GRANT.

POLITICAL NOTES.

The national game—the Cincinnati nomination.

The Cleveland Leader expects HOFFMAN to be the Democratic candidate for President.

MOSBY says he will support the Democratic candidate for President, if one is nominated.

The Terre Haute Journal says that Hon. D. W. VOORHEES' card meets with the hearty approval of every Democrat in that city.

At the Morristown, N. J., charter election on Monday, JOSEPH W. BALLANTINE, Democrat, was elected Mayor over HALSEY, Republican, by 123 Majority. There is a Republican majority in the Council.

Judge JAMES THOMPSON has accepted the labor reform nomination for Judge of the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania, and, in accordance with the suggestion of the committee, makes no pledges.

Some Virginia papers are very anxious to have it understood that Mr. JOHN GOODE, Jr., of that State, attended the meeting of the National Democratic Committee, not as a Democrat, but as a Conservative.

This is from the New-Orleans Times of Friday last: "The two Confederate Senators who represented this State in the Senate, down to the fall of the Confederacy, met yesterday for the first time for a long period, and took a glass of wine to the success of Old GREELEY."

The Montrose (Penn.) Republican asserts that the indorsement of GREELEY'S nomination from Bradford County, Pennsylvania, which the Tribune printed, came from one of the most unprincipled Democratic politicians and most persevering office-seekers in Northern Pennsylvania.

Hon. HORACE MAYNARD was welcomed by his friends in Nashville, Tenn., on Saturday evening, and in his speech, after alluding to the division of his district by the Democrats, to defeat his re-election, said that he had served them longer in Congress than any other Tennesseean had ever served a constituency before.

The New-Haven Palladium reports that, immediately after the Democratic Legislative caucus on Monday evening, Mr. WALLER, a member of the Committee to report the best method of proceeding in the election of United States Senator, said that they had had no communication or conference with Mr. FERRY, either directly or indirectly, and had received no pledges from him or any of his friends as to the course he would pursue if elected Senator.

Fifty-sixth Anniversary of the Sunday-School Missionary Union.

The Sabbath-schools of the Sunday-school Missionary Union held their anniversaries at their various places of meeting in this City, yesterday afternoon, when addresses were delivered by prominent clergymen and laymen. In the evening the teachers and workers assembled in the Collegiate Reformed Dutch Church, Twenty-ninth-street and Fifth-avenue. Singing, prayer and Scriptural readings varied the exercises, with addresses by Rev. ISAAC FERRIS, President of the Union, Rev. THOMAS M. EDDY, of Washington, D. C., and Rev. WM. ORMISTON, of this City. The edifice was crowded with teachers, friends and workers in the schools, from all parts of the country.

The interval between the addresses was filled by Mr. PHILIP PHILLIPS, who sang several solos. The election of officers for the ensuing year resulted as follows: President, Rev. Isaac Ferris, D. D., LL.D., No. 108 East Twelfth-street; Vice-Presidents, M. C. Morgan, No. 83 Dey-street; Albert Woodruff, No. 92 Wall-street; J. W. C. Leveridge, No. 22 Duane-street; B. B. Atterbury, No. 39 Park-avenue; Peter Balen, No. 138 Pearl-street; Geo. S. Scofield, Nos. 8 and 10 Bible House; Corresponding Secretary, Henry Brewster; Recording Secretary, Charles M. Earle, No. 176 Broadway; Treasurer, George S. Scofield, Nos. 8 and 10 Bible House.

Fire in Duane-Street.

About 10 o'clock last night a fire occurred in the restaurant of BLANT & MINZESHEIMER, on the first floor of the premises No. 100 Duane-street. The fire broke out in the kitchen in the rear of the restaurant, and extended to a two-story frame building in the rear, and also to several of the adjoining buildings. The loss of BLANT & MINZESHEIMER is estimated at $1,500; fully insured. The frame building in the rear was occupied by JAMES McCLENAHAN, cooper, and WILLIAM ROGERS and R. FERGUSON, carpenters, whose aggregate loss will amount to $1,000. The front and rear buildings are owned by L. R. KIPP, and are damaged to the extent of $3,500. No. 102 Duane-street, occupied by STARBUCK & STEVENS, was damaged to the extent of $500. The fire also extended to the buildings Nos. 58 and 60 Reade-street, occupied by ALDEN SAMPSON & SONS, dealers in oil-cloth, and J. M. STEVENS, publisher; damage, $1,000.

A Seventh Ward Shooting Affray.

Owing to some misunderstanding arising out of a conflict in their business associations, WM. A. TUCKER, a private watchman on the river front, who resides at No. 34 Cherry-street, and ALFRED K. UTLEY, Captain of the ship Charles F. Elwell, lying at Pier No. 43, East River, quarrelled, last night. During the difficulty TUCKER drew a revolver and fired two shots at UTLEY. The ball from the first struck a button on UTLEY's pants and glanced off, the one from the second shot barely broke the skin of UTLEY's left thigh, but nevertheless inflicted a slight wound. Officer CULLEN, who, hearing the shots, ran to the scene of the affray, arrested TUCKER, and locked him up in the Seventh Precinct Station-house.

National Musicians' Protective Society.

A banquet was tendered last evening, at the Grand Central Hotel, to the delegates to the Musical Convention lately held in this City, by the Musicians' Protective Association of the United States. About 100 gentlemen were present. After the banquet, speeches were made by the President, U. S. HILL; THOMAS G. HARKINS, of Philadelphia; GEO. ENDRIS, of Boston; F. H. ROSEWALD, of Baltimore; R. K. McCLURG, of Philadelphia, and others.

THE STRIKES.

Condition of the Labor Question Here and Elsewhere.

THE CARPENTERS' STRIKE.

Somewhat of a Lull—The Important Meeting Today—Fresh Accessions of Strength—Fresh Concessions by Bosses.

Yesterday the battle between the carpenters and their employers went on, but with somewhat less briskness than on the first day. Committees were sent out as before to persuade the bosses and to convince the workmen who might be so false to the cause of labor as to work ten hours a day. But there was a great falling off in the number of employers who were open to persuasion. For whereas on the first day of the strike 140 consented to the new terms. Yesterday only thirty-five listened to reason. The fact was that both journeymen and masters were undecided what course to pursue, and desire to learn the result of today's meeting in the Mechanics' and Manufacturers' Exchange before pledging themselves in any way. There were not a few instances in which the workmen who had joined the Union on Monday went to work on Tuesday with masters who had refused to listen to the eight-hour business; and there were masters who, having pretended to accept, did so only that they might get workmen to finish up some pressing job, and incontinently "sacked" all the others in their shops. There was some angry talking among the strikers as to what was to be done with such men, but those who had influence over their comrades were for moral suasion, and nothing more.

The room at Masonic Hall was crowded yesterday morning at 7 o'clock, and Mr. JOHN A. NOLAN occupied the chair. They adjourned at 4, in consequence of the hall having been engaged for the Typographical Union meeting, and at 7 resumed their session in a room down in the basement. In this evening meeting the following delegates were named to confer with the masters: Dennis S. Griffin, Edmund Gridley, J. A. Nolan, E. L. Roseman and Anthony Kelly. Much excitement was occasioned shortly afterward by the announcement that HOE & CO., of Gansevort-street had conceded the demand of eight hours, as this firm is one of the largest in the business. This announcement also gave an impetus to the enrollment of new members in the Union, and no less than 250 joined.

Yesterday morning a large number of the carpenters now on strike visited the shop of Mr. JAMES HUME, No. 126 Clinton-place, where they attempted to compel the workmen there employed to quit work and join them. Their actions and words were so loud and violent that the foreman called upon Mr. HUME to have them ejected. One of the men seized one of Mr. HUME's employes—a man whom he highly valued as a good workman—and attempted to force him to quit work. The employe refused, and a struggle ensued, during which Mr. HUME's man threatened to shoot the intruder if he did not let go his hold. The turbulent spirit of the strikers rose to such a high pitch that Mr. HUME, decreeing they had no right to come in his establishment and retard the progress of his business, ordered them out. They declined to go, whereupon word was sent to the Station-house, and officers returned who ejected the men. On the corner of Sixth-avenue and Clinton-place they stopped, and were loud and angry in their expressions, speaking of revolvers and clubs so as to be fixed for another scene. After some time spent in talking they proceeded up Sixth-avenue in a body.

The Cabinet-Makers in Council—Another Strike Impending.

The German journeymen cabinet-makers held a general meeting last evening at the Teutonia Assembly Rooms, on Third-avenue, under the auspices of the German Cabinet-makers' Union, for the purpose of securing the enforcement of the eight-hour labor system in their business. ROBERT SCHLUETER presided.

A delegation of the carpenters and joiners, now on a strike, were introduced. They gave a detailed account of the circumstances that led to the strike, stating that about three-fourths of the bosses had complied with the demand of the workmen. A member of the delegation denounced the German Immigrant Aid Society as a nuisance in inducing so many German workmen to emigrate to this country by false representations. It was necessary to take measures to put a stop to this flow of immigration. Several other members of the delegation spoke in the same strain.

The eight-hour question was then debated at some length and resulted in the adoption of a resolution that a mass-meeting of the trade should be called at an early day to consider the subject and decide on the action to be taken.

The German Cabinet-makers' Union is composed of 1,200 members, but it is estimated that about 12,000 Germans are employed at this trade in this City. The average wages for custom work is $16 to $17 per week, while the best workmen employed on trade work receive only $10 per week.

LABOR MOVEMENTS ELSEWHERE

Strike of the Copper Miners—More Troops to Aid the Civil Authorities.

DETROIT, Mich., May 14.—A special dispatch to the Tribune, this morning, from Houghton, states that the strike is general at the Calumet, Hecla, Schoolcraft, Quincy, Franklin and Pewabick Mines. Ten thousand men have been engaged. The ringleaders at the Calumet and Hecla Mines were arrested, but were rescued by a mob from six Deputy Sheriffs. No one has been injured as yet. The strike has been going on for twelve days.

Gov. BALDWIN has received a dispatch from the Judge and Prosecuting Attorney of Houghton County confirming the accounts of the formidable nature of the strike and the powerlessness of the civil authorities, and requesting further assistance. Another detachment of fifty troops left here today, by the way of Chicago, for the scene of the disturbance.

Great Labor Demonstration in Chicago—A Strike Imminent.

CHICAGO, May 14.—Extensive preparations are making by the working men in this city for their demonstration to-morrow, and it is asserted that the procession will number 20,000. The leaders still declare that the movement is not intended to inaugurate a strike; but it is believed by many that if the demonstration is a success in point of numbers a strike will follow.

The Resignation of Rev. Merrill Richardson.

An Ecclesiastical Council, composed of delegates from the various Congregational Churches in New-York and vicinity, was held, yesterday afternoon, at the New-England Congregational Church, Madison-avenue and Forty-ninth-street, to consider the resignation of Rev. MERRILL RICHARDSON, Pastor of the Church. Rev. W. B. BROWN was appointed Moderator, and Rev. S. H. VIRGIN, Scribe. The resignation was read. Mr. RICHARDSON gave as the cause of his resigning the pastorate of the Church that his health had been too weak to allow him to fulfill his duties properly. Dr. HOUGHTON made some statements in regard to the resignation, followed by remarks from the retiring pastor. The Council approved the action of the Church in receiving the resignation, and passed resolutions commending Mr. RICHARDSON to the fellowship of the Church. The Council of three examined Rev. ISAAC L. PRIOR, a candidate for the office of Evangelist, and finding him fully qualified, the ordination will take place at the church on Sunday next.

Twenty-First Assembly District Republican Association.

The meeting of the Twenty-first Assembly District Republican Association last night, at No. 2,313 Third-avenue, was largely attended, Mr. WM. F. HARRADON presided. The meeting was addressed by Messrs. JAMES M. THOMPSON, Col. A. P. KETCHAM and H. C. ROBINSON. Mr. THOMPSON strongly advocated the renomination of President GRANT. Col. KETCHAM said that there was no public man upon whose course he looked with more sadness than that of HORACE GREELEY, who was now begging the support of the Democratic Party, and whose blunder was worse than a crime. Mr. ROBINSON said that although he had been heretofore a follower of HORACE GREELEY, he could not follow him to Cincinnati. He eulogized Gen. GRANT'S Administration, praised the character of CHARLES SUMNER, and paid a tribute to Secretary BOUTWELL'S administration of the affairs of the Treasury Department.

A Malicious Trick—Attempt to Wreck the Machinery of a Steel Foundry.

Last week the men employed to wheel coal to the furnaces at THOMPSON & CO.'s and GREGORY & CO.'s steel-works, in Newark, struck for higher wages, were discharged and new men put in their places. On Monday morning, the engineer at THOMPSON'S works carefully examined all the machinery before it was started, and discovered that a heavy bar of steel had been placed in such a position that on the revolution of the driving-wheel, it would fall among the connecting cog-wheels. Had it dropped in the manner it was intended to do, the whole machinery would have been wrecked, and probably the lives of the engineer and firemen been sacrificed. On the same morning, in GREGORY'S works, it was found that the blasts of the furnaces had been stuffed with rags and clothing. A reward will probably be offered for the discovery of the offenders.

SURGICAL MALPRACTICE.

Another Victim to it—The Patient Dies in Thompson-Street—Dr. Gyles the Suspected Practitioner.

Mrs. MARY ANN LOWDEN, a widow, forty-five years of age, of No. 228 Thompson-street, was found lying dead on the bed in her sleeping apartments, at 5 o'clock on Monday evening, under circumstances which led to the belief that she had been the victim of malpractice. Coroner YOUNG was notified to hold an inquest in the case, and he instituted inquiries in the matter and learned that about 2 o'clock on Monday afternoon, a man called on Mrs. LOWDEN and remained closeted with her for nearly two hours. When he started to go he handed KATE OTTO, a domestic in the house, a slip of paper on which was written No. 112 Ninth-avenue, and at the same time told the girl that he could be found there in case he was wanted. About an hour afterward Miss MARY LOUISA LOWDEN, aged twenty, a daughter of deceased, on entering her mother's bedchamber, found her lying dead on the bed, her clothes and the bed-clothing being completely saturated with blood. As Mrs. LOWDEN had always been in remarkably good health, the daughter's suspicions were aroused, and she communicated with Capt. BYRNES, of the Fifteenth Precinct, and placed in his hands the slip of paper before described. She also gave an accurate description of the visitor to the Captain.

Coroner YOUNG called on Capt. BYRNES, and, as the result of the conference between them, it was determined to arrest the stranger whose conduct had excited such grave suspicions. An officer in plain clothes called several times during yesterday at the place indicated, which is a drug-store, but no person answering the description of the man was found in the place. In the meantime Coroner YOUNG left the City and placed the case in charge of Dr. E. T. T. MARSH, his deputy. Yesterday afternoon, Dr. MARSH, assisted by several other physicians, made a careful post-mortem examination of the remains of the deceased and found abundant evidence that she had been the victim of an instrumental operation performed upon her for the purpose of producing an abortion.

Shortly before 6 o'clock last evening, Capt. BYRNES, attired in plain clothes, visited the drug-store indicated above, and found Dr. GEO. R. GYLES, the proprietor, in charge of the establishment. His appearance tallied exactly with the description given by Miss LOWDEN and the servant girl. The Captain, without revealing the true nature of his business, told the doctor that the woman whom he had visited on the previous day was in a dangerous condition, and his presence was at once needed at the house. He also told the doctor that some of his patient's friends were of the opinion that she was suffering from an operation for abortion, but Dr. GYLES scouted the idea, and said that could not be, as he had attended her for two hours on the previous day. Dr. GYLES accompanied him, and instead of taking him to the house in Thompson-street, the captain escorted him to the Mercer-street Police station, where for the first time the doctor learned that Mrs. LOWDEN was dead, and that he was under arrest for having caused her death. He was considerably agitated, and said, "Captain, I did not do it." He was detained at the Station-house and identified by Miss LOWDEN and KATE OTTO. He was locked up to await the action of the Coroner. Dr. GYLES is a man of about forty-five years, and has been practicing medicine in this City for a number of years. He has been established at his present location for about a year and a half. This is his first appearance before the public in his present character. Miss LOWDEN stated last evening that her mother appeared in unusually good health on the day of her death. She was at dinner with the family at 1 o'clock in the afternoon, and immediately thereafter went out without saying where she was going. She returned at 1½ o'clock, and at about 2 o'clock Dr. GYLES called. In less than an hour after she went up to her mother's room, but had to force the doors open. It is not known positively whether Mrs. LOWDEN was dead when Dr. GYLES left the house, but from the fact that the woman was almost cold when found it is believed that she had expired before he left. The fact of the door of the room having been found locked, would seem to indicate that Mrs. LOWDEN locked it after the doctor had taken his departure, or else he was heartless enough to lock the door upon his victim, but this circumstance has not yet been fully investigated. There is also a variance in the small slip of paper bearing the doctor's address but not his name, and which subsequently proved to be the clue which led to his arrest. It was originally reported that Dr. GYLES had handed the paper to the domestic when he took his departure, but Capt. BYRNES states most positively that he found the paper torn into small pieces on the floor of the room in which Mrs. LOWDEN died, and that by collecting the remnants and pasting them together, he was enabled to make out the address of the drug-store, where the doctor was found and arrested. Mrs. LOWDEN, the deceased, was a native of this City, widow of ROBERT LOWDEN, a harness-maker, who has been dead for several years. It is asserted that the reputed father of the child is a wealthy livery-stable keeper in the upper portion of the City. Capt. BYRNES is looking for him, and his name is withheld until his arrest is effected.

HORRIBLE MASSACRE.

Nine Teamsters Said to have been Burned to Death by Indians and Negro Deserters in Texas.

From the San Antonio (Texas) Herald, May 3.

In our Wednesday's issue we referred to the rumor of a train being captured by Indians, and that a party sent in pursuit, Lieut. VINSON in command, had resulted in the wounding of that officer and the abandonment of the pursuit—this was given on the authority of a letter to Messrs. ADAMS, WICKES & CO., which said:

"About eight days since, while encamped at the Howard Springs, on the El Paso road, 150 miles above this place, a train of wagons and about fifteen persons were attacked by sixty redskins, six or eight deserters, negro soldiers and seven Mexicans. It was about 12 M. Some of the men were cooking, some lolling in the pleasant shade, others attending to the various duties, and all in a state of lazy carelessness when like a thunderbolt the fiendish yell of the savages deadened every heart with terror. Before the panic-stricken teamsters could collect their scattered thoughts and arms, the Indians had ridden among them and secured all but two. After having thus secured the now despairing teamsters they proceeded to pillage the contents of the wagons. They, to their greater delight, found a quantity of United States arms and ammunition, which they appropriated to their use. They took a few articles of merchandise, with which the wagons were principally loaded, for the use of their sable recruits and Mexicans. They then rolled the wagons together, carefully tied their victims under the wagons, piled wood around and set fire to the pile. They remained with a diabolical stolidity till the death throes of the tortured teamsters ceased to greet their ears, then they deliberately collected their mules and spoils with the dignified air of conquerors."

By the mail of yesterday we received communications from several correspondents at Fort Clark giving the details in all their horrors, and we can in truth say that never in the long life that we have spent on the Texan frontier have we any recollection of anything equaling in atrocity these barbarous murders at Howard's Wells—nine persons burned at the stake. And this atrocity can only be attributed to the greater savageness of their new allies—the black troops. From our correspondence we are told that the negro troops behaved badly; that the officers (white) gallantly led them, but that Capt. CUNEY while rapidly in pursuit his horse fell and disabled him. Of Lieut. VINSON we cannot do better than quote from a letter before us: "Gen. MERRITT, horror-struck at the catastrophe he witnessed, ordered instant pursuit, which was maintained with animation, until on overtaking them Lieut. VINSON, being in the advance, fell, but most gallantly, mortally wounded—saying, 'Tell all my friends I died in the front.'" The impression from our correspondence is that the loss of Lieut. VINSON and the miserable failure of the pursuit was probably owing to the negro troops being new troops—recruits. We confess our partialities are in favor of white troops. Now to complicate our numerous difficulties is the new and most unexpected trouble; the very negroes enlisted and paid for by our, the United States Government, coalescing with the Indians and making the raids more fiendish than the Indians when operating by themselves. That the negro is not reliable for the defense of our frontier must, from this terrible disaster, be apparent to the least reflecting person.

Ex-Mayor Opdyke's House Robbed.

The house of Ex-Mayor GEO. OPDYKE Forty-seventh-street and Fifth-avenue, was robbed last night by a couple of sneak-thieves, while the family were away at the theatre. The servants were in the upper part of the house, and, the front door having been carelessly left open, the thieves entered, packed up plate and other property to the value of $1,000, and were about leaving through the rear door with their plunder, when one of the servants, coming down-stairs, saw them and screamed for help. She was immediately knocked down by one of the ruffians, but, continuing still to scream, some neighbors and a policeman were attracted to the place. The officer rushed into the house, but the thieves had escaped, leaving their plunder behind them.

It was a long pull, a strong pull and a pull altogether at the corner last Saturday. The hot weather of Thursday and Friday was suggestive. Winter garments must be got rid of, and so the multitude rushed for the famous Corner. On Thursday and Friday the sales at retail, C. O. D., amounted to over $12,000, but Saturday told the story of wants and necessities in the shape of $15,490 handed in for men's and boys' clothing to the largest retail clothing-house in America. Calling Things by Their Right Names.

The lock-stitch sewing-machine companies have been laying their heads together to account for the extraordinary preference which the public manifest for the Wilcox & Gibbs Machine, as shown by the fact that a vast number of lock-stitch machines are annually exchanged for the Wilcox & Gibbs. It has hitherto been to them an inexplicable mystery, but they have at last announced the discovery that the lock-stitch machines thus exchanged are old-style, worn-out affairs—in short, old iron; although a very large proportion of them are nearly new, and of the very latest make. The public discovered this long ago, and are continuing to exchange new lock-stitch machines at old-iron prices for the Wilcox & Gibbs Machine, in such quantities that another auction sale will soon be imperatively called for.—Advertisement.

Just After Christmas of 1870, I was laid up with an obstinate cough, together with spitting of blood, accompanied with some fever, from the joint effects of which I was greatly weakened, and became rapidly reduced. Following the best advice I could get, I tried various medicines, but none apparently done much good, leaving me low spirited enough. I made up my mind at last to try DR. JAYNE'S EXPECTORANT, and procured some. I used it carefully as directed, and gradually got rid of my complaint.—Wm. A. C. Pyle, Tamaron, Perry County, Wis.

Self-Defense.

To a criminal neglect of preventive medication may be ascribed a majority of the ailments which affect humanity. It is a well-ascertained fact, resting on the experience of twenty years, that a course of HOSTETTER'S STOMACH BITTERS will put even a naturally feeble system in such a state of defense that it will be competent to resist the most prevalent causes of disease, such as the malign influence of miasma, unwholesome water, excessive heat, damp, cold, sudden changes of temperature, &c. Yet there are thousands of persons living in perpetual peril from one or more of these causes, who recklessly omit to avail themselves of the absolute protection which this famous vegetable antidote affords. Intermittent and bilious remittent fevers, rheumatism, general debility, nervous weakness, and irregularities of the stomach, bowels and liver, would be comparatively unknown if this palatable specific were in universal use in the districts where they principally prevail.

Do not let your prejudice stand between your suffering child and the relief that will be absolutely sure to follow the use of MRS. WINSLOW'S SOOTHING SYRUP.

A MILLER'S STORY OF THE WAR;
Or, the Plebiscite.

By one of the 7,500,000 who voted "Yes."

Translated from the French of ERCKMANN-CHATRIAN, authors of "The Conscript," "The Blockade," &c.

One vol. 12mo, with full-page illustration.
Paper, 75c.; Cloth, $1 25.

The previous works of ERCKMANN-CHATRIAN have been based on events more or less remote. In this volume the chief magistrate of a small town in Alsace, a miller, describes in a simple and most impressive manner the events antecedent to and during the Franco-German war, as they came under his own observation. The narrative is extremely simple, but vivid, graphic, and interesting to the last degree.

REAL ESTATE TRANSACTIONS.

The most important auction held at the Exchange, yesterday, Tuesday, May 14, and one attracting a large degree of attention from real estate operators, was that in charge of MULLER, WILKINS & Co., an executor's sale of twenty-eight City lots, in size each 25x102.2, situated respectively, twelve on the north side of Eighty-fourth-street, and sixteen on the south side of Eighty-fifth-street, west of Eleventh-avenue and near the proposed Riverside Park, and New-avenue. All the lots were sold and at very favorable figures, those on Eighty-fourth-street bringing from $3,150 to $5,600 each, and on Eighty-fifth-street, from $3,150 to $3,500 each. From the sale of all the twenty-eight lots the sum of $99,175 was realized—a handsome result. A detailed report, with names of purchasers in each instance, is appended. At another executor's sale, the same firm also disposed of one lot, 25x100, located on the east side of Ninth-avenue, between Ninety-eighth and Ninety-ninth streets, which was purchased by L. J. PHILLIPS, for $3,375.

In addition to the above the following active business was transacted by other auctioneers: Sale at public auction by WM. KENNELLY of the property known as No. 380 Grand-street, north side, between Norfolk and Suffolk streets, embracing a lot 25.2 by 125, with a four-story brick house (with store) 25.2 by 97 thereon, sold for $41,750, the purchaser being L. FRIEDMAN. Sale by A. J. BLEECKER, SON & CO., by order of the Supreme Court in partition, under the direction of CHAS. D. RUST, Esq., trustee, of the premises No. 87 Ninth-avenue, south-west corner of Sixteenth-street, comprising a lot 25 by 100, with a three-story brick front house, renting for $1,500 per year, upon the front thereof, and two frame buildings of no particular value in rear. Sold for $14,600, and purchased by J. D. LEWIS. This same property was sold at auction some two years ago, when it brought $15,750. Adjournment by JOS. MCGUIRE until Friday, (17th inst.,) of the legal sale of property known as Nos. 52 and 54 Greenwich-street, and No. 55 Washington-street. Adjournment by JAMES M. MILLER until the 28th inst., of legal sale of lot on One Hundred and Twenty-third-street, near Sixth-avenue. Nothing further worthy of note occurred. In reference to the suburban auctions held yesterday, viz.: Sales at West Dunnellen and at New-Brooklyn, N. J., by A. D. MELLICK, Jr., & BRO., and sale at Tarrytown, Westchester County, by BLACKWELL & Co., particulars as to the results will be given to-morrow.

The auction held at Elizabeth, N. J., on Monday, May 13, was, as stated yesterday, very largely attended, and, although the prices realized were not as large as was expected, a good general result was achieved. The sale was well conducted by A. D. MELLICK, JR., & BRO., the auctioneers in charge, and in all 207 city lots were sold for $83,816, in the aggregate. Two houses were also disposed of, one for $7,800, and the other for $7,000, thus making the total of the sale reach the sum of $98,616. The principal buyers of lots were as follows: S. W. Walf, H. Keller, Joseph Kohner, Leo Moses, E. F. Bacon, W. W. Bacnus, S. J. Aheron, J. D. Sayr, A. Maze, Geo. Hughes, L. Olney and Geo. Trull, of this City; L. C. McCabe, Amos Clark, Jr., and Chas. Dansberry, of Elizabeth, N. J.; W. A. Kissam and Fred. Muncke, of Brooklyn; John M. Grinnell, of Newark, and E. C. Bramhall, of Bergen Point. A statement in detail of the property sold will be found below in the summary annexed.

For today the great attraction in the market is the proposed sale of 200 well-located lots at Maspeth, Long Island, near Williamsburg, by JERE. JOHNSON, Jr. The auction will be held on the ground, at 2 o'clock, and a free excursion-train will be run in connection with the sale, leaving the foot of South Eighth-street, Williamsburg, at 1 P. M. The transaction, as projected, is worthy the attention of investors. At the Exchange in this City, at a Supreme Court sale, two houses and lots on First-avenue, between Twenty-fifth and Twenty-sixth streets, will be offered by JAMES M. MILLER, and at an executor's sale a property at Long Island City, by JAMES CAGNEY.

The Real Estate Register for May, published by V. K. STEVENSON & SON, No. 11 Pine-st., has just been issued, and its receipt is acknowledged. It contains an extensive list of City residences for sale and to let, the disposal of which is in charge of the firm; also, an extended list of desirable lots for sale, together with considerable valuable information concerning City real estate generally.

RECENT PRIVATE SALES.

The following private sales of City lots are reported as effected by the brokers named:

By V. K. STEVENSON & SON, No. 11 Pine-street: Five lots on the south-east corner of Fifth-avenue and Ninety-first-street, together forming a plot 100 by 125; sold for $165,000, cash. The purchase was made, we understand, for Mr. A. E. SALTER, an American merchant doing business in Shanghai, China, thus showing that even at the antipodes the intrinsic value of a Fifth-avenue front on Central Park is appreciated. This property was bought, three months since, by the parties now disposing of it, for $145,000.

By L. FRIEDMAN, No. 112 Broadway, assisted by G. LESPINASSE, same office: Plot of ground, 100 by 170, (nearly seven lots,) on the south-east corner of Fifth-avenue and One Hundred and Ninth-street; sold for $105,000, cash; purchaser, Mr. HENRY COHEN.

By WM. H. RAYNOR, No. 5½ Pine-st., seven lots on the north side of Ninety-sixth-street, 225 feet east of Ninth-avenue, in size each 25 by 80, sold together for $26,000; also, one full lot, on the south side of Fifty-seventh-street, 325 feet west of Fifth-avenue, sold for $34,000.

By G. LESPINASSE, No. 112 Broadway, four lots on corner of the Grand Boulevard and One Hundred and Forty-sixth-street, with four lots in rear, fronting on 200-st., sold for $31,500; eight lots on Boulevard, forming block front between One Hundred and Fifty-second and One Hundred and Fifty-third streets, sold for $47,000, and one lot on the north-west corner of the Boulevard and One Hundred and Forty-sixth-street, sold for $8,000.

MIDLAND PACIFIC RAILWAY
7 Per Cent. Gold Bonds,

Limited to $18,333 per mile and secured by a first mortgage on a completed road running from Nebraska City, on the Missouri River, to Lincoln, the capital of Nebraska. This division has been open one year, and IS NOW EARNING MORE THAN THE INTEREST ON ITS BONDS. It is the central link of a direct East and West road now being rapidly built from Urbana, Ill., through a very rich agricultural and densely populated district the greater part of the way to Grand Island, on the Union Pacific. This new line is about 610 miles long, and much needed by the section of country which it traverses, therefore receives very liberal aid toward its construction, and the completion of the entire line is anticipated within 1873. In the meantime we shall sell the bonds only on completed road. This will make the shortest route from the Atlantic to the Pacific, it being almost an air line.

We recommend these bonds as a prime security. Coupons payable Feb. and Aug. 1, free of tax, in the City of New-York. Present price 90 and accrued interest in currency.

CAYUGA LAKE RAILROAD,
State of New-York,
7 PER CENT.
FIRST MORTGAGE
GOLD BONDS.

At 90 and accrued interest in currency.
THIRTY YEARS TO RUN, AND ISSUED FOR $20,000 PER MILE.

This road forms the shortest and most direct route from the great anthracite and semi-bituminous coal-fields of Pennsylvania into the central part of this State, and will run in connection with the New-York Central Road, which it crosses at Cayuga Bridge. Traversing, as it does, the finest and most populous agricultural district, generally known as the "GARDEN OF THE STATE," its local traffic will be large, but its greatest source of revenue will be from its coal business. The road is being rapidly built. Iron is now being laid on a section covering more than one-quarter of the distance, and work on the whole line being pushed with great vigor, so that it is expected to have coal trains running by the 1st of November next. From our knowledge of this enterprise, and after the most thorough investigation, we most confidently recommend the Bonds as a safe investment. We offer, for the present, the Bonds at 90 and accrued interest in currency.

The beef cattle must be good, merchantable Cattle, all steers, from three to seven years old, in good, healthy condition, and averaging at least eight hundred pounds, live weight, the weight to be determined by weighing on scales when practicable. Their delivery must commence at each of the points named on the first day of July, 1872, at which time about one-twenty-fourth of the whole quantity will be delivered; and, thereafter, the balance to be delivered in equal quantities on the 15th and 1st of each month.

Bids will also be received for the delivery of the quantity of Beef required for the months of January, February, March, April, May and June, 1873, of what are known as "Native," or "American," Cattle, or for Cattle that have been wintered north of Kansas; the Cattle so delivered to meet the above requirements as regards age and condition, and to average not less than one thousand and fifty pounds, live weight.

That there may be no failure on the part of the contractor, he will be required to keep the Beef Cattle in the vicinity of the agency, to be delivered when required; and should it be ascertained that he is not collecting cattle in the vicinity fast enough, or should he fail to deliver them as required, the undersigned will purchase, or cause to be purchased, Beef Cattle as he may elect, at the expense of said contractor.

The undersigned reserves the right to increase or diminish the quantity of each or any of the articles which the bidder or bidders propose to furnish.

All articles furnished by contract made under this advertisement will be subject to inspection, and such articles as may in any respect fail to conform to the requirements of contract and the sample, will be rejected, and in that case the contractor or contractors will be bound to furnish others of the required kind or quality without delay, or if that be not done they will be purchased at his or their expense.

Payments will be made at this office on proper receipts, after the accounts therefor shall have been properly approved.

Each copy of each proposal must have a copy of this advertisement (a slip from a newspaper) pasted at its head.

The right is reserved to reject any or all proposals, if such a course should be deemed for the interest of the Government.

No proposal will be considered that does not strictly comply with the following form:

THE PHELPS TRAGEDY.

Three Important Arrests and the Prisoners Identified.

Hellick, the Sneak Thief, Supposed to be the Assassin—Unsuccessful Descent upon His Premises—Daring Escape of the Accused.

Considerable progress was made yesterday by the Police authorities in their search for the thieves concerned in the shooting of Mr. CHAS. H. PHELPS, the jeweler on Sixth-avenue, on Friday evening last. Three desperate thieves, well known to the Police, are now in custody, on suspicion of having been implicated in the outrageous assault upon Mr. PHELPS, and have been partially identified. The fourth member of the gang, the one who shot PHELPS, escaped from the hands of the Police when his capture was almost a certainty, and unfortunately is still at large.

The arrest of these desperadoes resulted from the co-operation of Capts. BURDEN, CAFFREY and MCCULLOUGH, of the Twenty-ninth, Twentieth and Twenty-first Precincts, and several of their subordinates, and these officers are confident that they will prove successful in arresting the principal in the crime. Capt. MCCULLOUGH received information on Monday evening from a citizen, whose name for obvious reasons is at present withheld from publication, that he saw a man hatless, excited and apparently breathless and exhausted from a long run, take refuge in a tenement-house in West Thirty-ninth-street, near Tenth-avenue. Deeming this information of great importance, Capt. MCCULLOUGH at once consulted with Capt. BURDEN, of the Twenty-ninth Precinct, and as the suspected house is situated in the Twentieth Precinct, a visit was paid to Capt. CAFFREY and a conference held with him. The result of this conference was that the officers became convinced that the "gang" they were looking for hailed from the Twentieth Ward. Sergt. JAMES and Detectives MCCONNELL and FRAZIER, of the Twentieth Precinct, in plain clothes, were sent out to look for these ruffians, and after scouring the Precinct for several hours, visiting and searching all the dens and haunts of the thieves, at about 11 o'clock they entered a low drinking saloon in Twenty-ninth-street, near Ninth-avenue, where they saw a number of young thieves drinking and playing cards. Among these men so regaling themselves the officers noticed the three young ruffians they were in search of. They pounced upon them, and before the thieves could recover from their surprise they were securely handcuffed. Their companions sprang to their feet, and would doubtless have attempted a rescue, but the officers drew their revolvers and threatened to shoot the first man who attempted to interfere. The prisoners were marched off to the West Thirty-seventh-street Police Station, where they gave their names as HENRY PORTER, aged twenty-three, a paper-hanger by occupation, JAMES ROBINSON, alias John Thompson, aged twenty-one, a wrench-maker, and WILLIAM FETCH, aged twenty-two, a hackman. On being searched, each of the men was found armed with a loaded revolver. They were taken into the Captain's private room, and what revelations they then made are not known, but soon after Sergt. JAMES, with Officers MCCONNELL and FRAZIER, started out again, and proceeded in great haste to the tenement-house in West Thirty-ninth-street previously mentioned, in search of JOHN HELLICK, a noted thief and desperado, who lived in the upper portion of this tenement. Arrived at the house indicated, the officers ascended to the fourth floor, and going directly to a rear room, knocked loudly for admission. The only response to their demand was a savage oath and the sound of a person moving rapidly across the room. Without any further hesitation Sergt. JAMES planted his shoulder to the door and forced it from its hinges. Entering the room, revolver in hand, the Sergeant was surprised to find the apartment empty. The truckle bed in one corner had the appearance of having been recently vacated, and the open window showed the means of escape adopted by the fugitive who had been so closely pressed, and run to earth. Rushing to the window, the Sergeant was just in time to catch a glimpse in the dark of the man of whom he was in search descending the fire escape in the rear of the house, from window to window, with all the agility of a cat, and finally drop to the yard beneath.

Sergt. JAMES at once sprang out to the fire escape and descended in the same manner adopted by the fugitive, while the officers who accompanied ran down-stairs and into the back yard, supposing that they could head him off. But the fugitive, half naked as he was, not having taking time to don any of his clothing, had the start of them, and although hotly pursued scaled several fences in the rear of the adjoining houses in advance of his pursuers, and gained Eleventh-avenue before they had got clear of the houses. The last seen of the fugitive by the officers was when he turned into Eleventh-avenue, for when the pursuers reached that thoroughfare he had totally disappeared as though the earth had opened and swallowed him up. An alarm was at once given, and several policemen having responded, a thorough search was made of all the tenement-houses in the neighborhood where it was supposed the fugitive could have taken refuge, and although the search was kept up until daylight, no trace of the man could be obtained. He had evidently dodged into one of the tenement-houses where sympathizing friends furnished him with clothes and he was spirited away before the arrival of the Police. There is no doubt that HELLICK was in bed when the officers knocked at the door, and instinctively divining that the visitors were Police officers in search of him, sprang to his feet, and without waiting to assume a single additional article of apparel, rushed to the window and escaped as stated above. The prisoners—PORTER, ROBINSON and FETCH—were locked up at the West Thirty-seventh-street Police Station for the night and were securely guarded. Yesterday morning they were handcuffed together, and guarded by Capt. CAFFREY, Sergt. JAMES and Officers MCCONNELL and FRAZIER, were brought down to the Central Police Office, where they were ushered into the private office of Supt. KELSO. In this office were assembled the Superintendent, Captains Caffrey, Burden, Hedden, McCullough, Sergt. James, Detectives McConnell of the Twentieth, and Hogan of the Twenty-ninth Precinct, and Capt. Irving of the Detective force. All others were excluded and a guard was stationed at the door of the private office, with instructions to allow no person to enter except those sent for by the Superintendent. The prisoners were placed in an inner room, and a long conference ensued. Mr. PALMER, Mr. PHELPS' friend, was sent for at once, and several clerks from the Chief Clerk's office were summoned. The prisoners were mixed up with the clerks, and Mr. PALMER was then introduced, and it is understood, though not positively, that he identified ROBINSON and FETCH as the two men he saw in the hallway of the house adjoining that occupied by Mr. PHELPS, and whose appearance at once excited his suspicions. He also identified PORTER as the man who was in company with the ruffian who shot Mr. PHELPS. From the description, HELLICK is almost beyond a doubt the man who shot Mr. PHELPS, and his escape, when almost in the hands of the Police, is a very unfortunate circumstance. After another conference, ROBINSON and FETCH were locked up at Police Head-quarters, and PORTER was sent back to the Twentieth Precinct Station in charge of Sergt. JAMES. It is believed that the three prisoners have made a clean breast of the entire matter, implicating the fugitive HELLICK as the man who shot Mr. PHELPS. The mother of FETCH accompanied her son to Police Head-quarters, and was so boisterous in her demonstrations of indignation at the arrest of her son that Capt. CAFFREY had to take her from the building and put her on board the Bleecker-street cars on her way home.

Superintendent KELSO, on being applied to by the TIMES reporter for information in regard to the above arrests, refused to give any information, and was very indignant when he was informed that the reporter was in possession of a great many of the facts connected therewith. He said that one of the men must have given the information to the Press, and he would find out who it was if he had to make a charge against each of the ten men who were the only ones cognizant of the facts in the case. Capt. CAFFREY, of the Twentieth Precinct, and Capt. BURDEN, of the Twenty-ninth Precinct were equally reticent, and said that they had been placed under an obligation of utter secrecy, and until the Superintendent removed that obligation they would be compelled to refrain from saying anything about the matter. Other Police Officers were, however, more communicative, and from them the facts given above were obtained. The prisoners under arrest are all sneak-thieves of desperate character. HELLICK has been arrested several times for robbery, and it is asserted has done the State some service at Sing Sing. A large force of detectives, to whom he is well known, are in search of him, and the Police officials, who are intimately connected with the case, are confident that he will be arrested within a few days, or perhaps hours.

Mr. PHELPS' condition yesterday was greatly improved, and his attending surgeons state that he is progressing slowly toward complete recovery. Although the patient is not considered entirely out of danger, the doctors entertain great hopes of his ultimate convalescence.

Mr. CHARLES H. PHELPS seems to have been made a special object of operation by the sneak-thieves. A short time since his place was attacked by them, and but for his prompt and energetic action would have been robbed of a large amount of jewelry. Mr. and Mrs. PHELPS were sitting in the store just before closing-up time, a few weeks ago, conversing, and Mr. PHELPS had just arisen to adjust the iron gates of the store, when two sneak-thieves made a dash at the place, and with a brickbat smashed in one of the massive panes of plate-glass of the window, which contained a large array of diamonds, gems and jewelry of great value. Directly the window was broken one of the thieves pushed his arm into the window to help himself, but Mr. PHELPS rushed outside so quickly that the thieves became frightened and ran away without securing any booty. Mr. PHELPS gave chase for some distance, but the thieves succeeded in making their escape. No clue was afterward obtained as to their identity.

IS GOULD TO ESCAPE?

The Attorney-General's Suit Discontinued—A Proof of Heath & Raphael's Surrender—The Affidavit and Order of Discontinuance—The Hope of the Future.

The readers of the TIMES may remember an announcement in the month of April that Attorney-General BARLOW had brought a suit against JAY GOULD and FREDERICK LANE to call them to account for their official conduct as directors of the Erie Railroad. It was also stated in a subsequent issue of the TIMES that this action was brought at the request of JOHN SWANN, Esq., who was the agent in New-York for the London Protective Union. A few days ago the Attorney-General received a letter from the same Mr. SWANN, requesting him to discontinue the suit on the ground that the London Protective Union (HEATH & RAPHAEL) had entered into such negotiations with other stockholders of Erie for the election of a Board of Directors in July as rendered any legal proceedings unnecessary. Of course the other stockholders are BISCHOFFSHEIM & GOLDSCHMIDT, so that the denial of the TIMES' assertion that the former had surrendered to the latter proves to be utterly groundless. It was so considered by brokers generally at the time it was made. The Attorney-General finding himself deserted by the complainants, who were answerable for the expenses of the suit, did not consider himself justified in continuing it at the cost of the State. He said that it belongs to the Erie Railroad to call its unfaithful officers to account, and its power to do so was ample. If the stockholders were dissatisfied with the management of the directors in this respect, a suit in the name of the people would furnish them a remedy. But there could be no reason why he should bring an action that none of the stockholders desired. If they chose to allow Messrs. GOULD & LANE to plunder them it was their business and not a matter that concerned the public to such a degree as to necessitate the large expense which such a litigation would involve. There was, of course, the moral side, and from that point of view it was greatly to be deplored that arrant knaves should be allowed to escape. Having thus relieved his conscience, the Attorney-General filed the following affidavit:

SUPREME COURT—County of Albany—The People of the State of New-York vs. The Erie Railway Company, JAY GOULD and FREDERICK N. LANE—City and County of New-York, ss.—FRANCIS C. BARLOW, Attorney-General of the State of New-York, being duly sworn, says that on April 3, 1872, an action was begun in this Court by the above plaintiffs against the above defendants, the object of which was to call the defendants GOULD and LANE to account for their official conduct as directors of the Erie Railway Company, under the provisions of the revised statutes, entitled "of Equitable Proceedings against Corporations." That said suit was begun at the request and to protect the interests of a large body of the stockholders of said railroad, residing in Europe and represented in this country by JOHN SWANN, Esq., their agent and attorney; that deponent, since the beginning of said action, has been informed by said SWANN that the persons so represented by him had made such arrangements with other stockholders of said railroad as to insure the proper protection of their rights, and that they do not further desire the aid of the people of this State in this action; that deponent considers this action a matter of private and not of public interest, and does not consider it desirable or for the public interest to prosecute it when not requested to do so by the stockholders of said railroad or some part thereof; that the summons herein was served on all the defendants on April 3, 1872; that the defendants, the Erie Railway Company and JAY GOULD, have appeared herein, the former by Messrs. BARLOW, LAROCQUE & MCFARLAND, their attorneys, and the latter by Messrs. FIELD & SHEARMAN, their attorneys, and that the defendant LANE has not appeared at all; that no complaint has been served, and that the time to serve the complaint has been once extended; that no proceedings have been had in this action except as above; that deponent desires to discontinue said action, for the reasons above stated. FRANCIS C. BARLOW.

Sworn before me, on May 11, 1872. T. J. MCCARTHY, (31,) Notary Public New-York County.

The subjoined is the order of discontinuance:

SUPREME COURT—COUNTY OF ALBANY.—The People of the State of New-York vs. The Erie Railway Company, JAY GOULD and FREDERICK H. LANE.—At a special term of this Court, held at the City of Albany, on the 13th day of May, 1872; Present, Hon. WILLIAM L. LEARNED, Justice. On reading and filing the affidavit of FRANCIS E. BARLOW, Attorney-General, plaintiff's attorney, and on motion of said Attorney-General, it is ordered that the above action be discontinued, on the payment to the defendants herein, who have appeared, their taxable costs and disbursements.

Granted May 13, 1872. W. L. L.

Copy, A. C. JUDSON, Clerk.

This looks very much as if GOULD is to be permitted to escape. It is evident that the London party have condoned his offenses in consideration of his surrender to them.

DR. PITCHER'S CASTORIA

Is a substitute for castor-oil, and has the most remarkable effects ever produced by any remedy. Unlike oil, pills, or narcotic syrups, it is pleasant to take; does not nauseate the stomach or gripe the bowels; on the contrary, it assimilates the food, and is sure to physic where the bowels are out of order. We have the record of many instances of sudden relief where the bowels have not moved for five, ten, and even twenty days, and where constant vomiting had existed with violent congestions and serious fevers. It contains neither mineral, morphine nor alcohol, and is equally adapted to adults and children. It acts like magic for stomach-ache, wind-colic, constipation, &c. Every family should have it. We know what the Castoria is, and desire that physicians and nurses shall thoroughly test it. We will furnish such persons without charge. J. B. ROSE & Co., No. 53 Broadway, New-York.
